RAILROAD NEWS.

CONSOLIDATING THE SANTA FE'S CALIFORNIA LINES.

Vice-President Smith Imparts Important News—The Santa Fe Not Going to San Francisco—A Big Party.

A special Santa Fé train came in at 9:30, Wednesday night, with a load of important people. The train, which came through solid from Topeka, comprised the engine, presided over by "Dad" Griffin, one of the oldest and most trusty engineers in the employ of the Santa Fé system; combination car No. 500, a hotel for the train crew; special cars Nos. 99 and 100, occupied by the passengers. In car 99 were C. W. Smith, first vice-president and general manager of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé; W. F. White, general ticket and passenger agent of the system, and commonly credited with being the most popular railroad man in America, and George Dillwyn Cook, a personal friend of both. In car 100 was Albert W. Nickerson, with his wife and two children. Every one posted in railroad matters remembers Thomas Nickerson, one of the first promoters of the Santa Fé system, and its president from 1875 until the beginning of the Strong administration. His brother Joseph was one of the heaviest stockholders. Albert W., who is now here, is a son of Joseph Nickerson, and is himself a director and the heaviest stockholder in the huge organization.

The mission of this party is an important one. THE TIMES has noted the proposed consolidation of the Santa Fé's lines in Southern California—built, building and projected. There are eight of them—the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley; the San Bernardino and San Diego; the San Bernardino Valley; the Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles; the San Diego Central; the Los Angeles and Port Ballona and the San Jacinto Valley. The California Southern is not included in this deal. It is necessary that each road have a meeting of its stockholders at its official headquarters, and vote upon the subject of consolidation. Then there will be a general meeting for ratification, and the officers for the new and comprehensive organization chosen. Three of these roads held their meetings here yesterday—the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad, the Port Ballona Railroad and the San Bernardino and San Diego Railroad. Today, at San Bernardino, the following roads will hold their meetings: The San Jacinto Valley Railroad, the San Bernardino and Los Angeles Railroad, the San Bernardino Valley Railroad and the Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles Railroad. Tomorrow the San Diego Central Railroad will hold its meeting in San Diego. The above party will be represented at all. They went last night to Santa Monica. Today they visit Santa Ana, and this evening reach San Bernardino. Tomorrow they will be in San Diego, and will return to this city Monday.

C. W. SMITH.

The General Manager of the Santa Fe Talks.

A representative of THE TIMES found First Vice-President and General Manager Smith very busy yesterday afternoon with all these important matters of business. Mr. Smith was obliging though busy; and talked freely on the fly—the truth-seeker walking down with him as far as High street, while Mr. Smith was hurrying to keep an engagement.

"I see you are holding your meetings preparatory to the consolidation. What will the new system be called, and how long before the consolidation will go into effect?" asked the TIMES man.

"The new organization will be known as the California Central Railroad Company, and the arrangement will go into effect as soon as we can comply with the legal requirements—somewhere about June 1st."

"I was secretly informed yesterday that the Santa Fé people have been running a survey up the San Gabriel cañon, with a view of getting a cut-off to Mojave. Is that so?"

"No," said Mr. Smith, "there is nothing in it whatever."

"The Chronicle has been filling up with stories that you were going to build to San Francisco at once, and told of shiploads of steel rails on their way to this country for your company. Is that so?"

"No, sir. There is not a word of truth in it. We have no thought of going to San Francisco, unless forced to it. As you know, we have a 25-year contract with the Southern Pacific to carry our traffic between Mojave and San Francisco. If they carry out their part of the contract in good faith, we have nothing better to ask; and there is no indication that they will not. The only trouble we have had has been their persistent refusal to carry our passengers from this city to Mojave—their scheme being to force us into taking all our passengers from Barstow to Mojave and leave Los Angeles out in the cold. This is all settled now, and they have acceded to our demands, thus acknowledging themselves wrong before. There is, therefore, no present indication of a rupture of the contract. We are carrying out our part in perfect good faith, and are perfectly satisfied with it as it is. We have taken no steps whatever in anticipation of a change. The Chronicle's statements about the rails are entirely false so far as we are concerned. We do not own a rail of all those shiploads the Chronicle tells about. The only foreign order we have had for rails is for 10,000 tons to finish up our branches in Southern California. These are to be delivered at San Diego in July and August next. The stories that we have had surveyors at work in Santa Barbara and other northern counties and that we have been buying any lands up there are entirely untrue. That sensational story that we have an interest in the Ballona Harbor and will put on a line of steamers to ply from there to San Francisco is also entirely without foundation. We have no interest whatever in the harbor. We own the railroad which is building from this city to Ballona and will run our tracks along the wharves there, but that is all." [President James Campbell, of the Port Ballona Company, said to the same reporter: "In thirty days we will have as much water in our harbor as there is at San Pedro. A small vessel loaded with lumber will anchor in the harbor next week."]

"The story was persistently circulated by a paper here, Mr. Smith, that the Santa Fé had a corner on all the rails, and the Southern Pacific on all the ties."

Mr. Smith smiled. "That is like the other reports we have been talking of," said he. "There is nothing in it whatever. On the contrary we have 60,000 more ties than we want."

"How are people in the East on our recent smallpox scare?"

"Oh, we have so much of the smallpox back East that we never stop to think twice of a few cases away out here. It isn't bothering any one's thoughts in particular."

At this point one of the bob-tail cars rattled along, and Mr. Smith swung lightly aboard and hurried on to meet his engagement.

Railroad Notes.

Yesterday's important meetings and big visitors brought a lot of the local railroad men to the city. Fred T. Perris, chief engineer of the California Southern, was in, and as busy and preoccupied as ever. He found time to tell THE TIMES man, however, that the long-lost fish-plates arrived some days ago, that work on the San Bernardino and Los Angeles Railroad is being pushed at top speed, and that he expects to bring it to a junction with the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad by the evening of the 24th, thus giving the Santa Fé its own through line from Kansas City to Los Angeles. In another column will be found a brief notice of the manner in which this important event in the history of Southern California will be welcomed—a grand excursion, booming cannon, brass bands and fireworks.

Mr. Shattuck, a director and heavy stockholder in the Santa Fé, came up from San Diego yesterday.

Herman Silver, secretary and treasurer of the Santa Fé's eight lines in Southern California, came in from San Bernardino yesterday.

H. B. Wilkins, general freight and passenger agent of the California Southern Railroad and of the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad, is in with the magnates.

George H. Fullerton, the Riverside railroader, is in town.

Hon. J. F. Crank came back from San Francisco to attend the meetings.

BRIEFS.

The Queen of the Pacific sails north tomorrow.

The bicycle exhibition at the Flower Festival tonight.

The select social hop at the Nadeau takes place tonight.

Mr. Pratt called at the Orphans' Home yesterday and left 160 fine books.

On last Tuesday Mrs. Mary Ralphs, mother of George, A. and O. N. Ralphs, of this city, died at San Bernardino.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to H. Schlesinger and Hattie Mendelson, and Mitchell Gerog and Louisa Wagenbach.

A little child which was found wandering about the County Hospital grounds the other day, and was taken in charge by the hospital attendants, was claimed by her parents yesterday.

It was Deputy Constable Alfredo Arguello who had the hard tussle on Aliso street yesterday, and not Constable Martin Aguirre, as stated on an inside page. The mistake was discovered too late for correction.

About 1 o'clock last night Deputy Constable Johnson was passing that sweet hole, Congress Hall, when two drunks came flying up to the sidewalk as if they had been fired from a cannon. They were so drunk they could not stand up, and the officer marched them to the County Jail.

A MUCH-SOUGHT TOWN.

Many People Inquiring about Huntington.

During the past few days considerable inquiry has been made about the new town of Huntington, recently laid out by Capt. Hovey and others. On one day this week between forty and fifty persons called upon T. E. Rowan in regard to this townsite. By consulting the maps and daily papers all may ascertain the exact location of the place. It is about five miles beyond Pasadena, and comprises a part of the Sierra Madre Villa property. The Sierra Madre Hotel, with its famous orange groves and highly-cultivated ornamental grounds dotted with groups of tropical trees, fountains and flowers, is on the north. The town of Huntington is upon the L. A. & S. G. V. R. R., and the new branch of the S. P. R. R. will pass directly through the site. The sale of the lots is to begin next week. The lots will be appraised, and sold for the first week at one-half this appraised value. At the end of the first week prices will be advanced 25 per cent., and at the end of the second week 25 per cent. more, to reach the appraised value as a selling price.

PERSONAL NEWS.

H. P. Bancroft, of Bancroft Brothers & Co., is at the Nadeau.

Wellwood Murray, the founder and first settler of the town of Banning, is at the St Elmo with his wife.

Mrs. Morris and Mrs. W. J. Wilsey, from San Bernardino, are in the city. Mrs. Wilsey was taken very suddenly ill after arriving, but it is hoped that the danger is now past. Her many friends, both here and in San Bernardino, wish her speedy recovery.

Harvey Sherwood, a great favorite with the Los Angeles of a few years ago, but who changed his place of residence to Fresno (bad cess to him!) is in town for a few days' stay and expects his wife to join him here. He is still in the milling business and is doing well.

Another Co-operative Colony.

As was mentioned a day or two since, 7500 acres of the Los Cerritos rancho has been purchased by Capt. A. D. Brock from Bixby Bros. This is the last tract that they will sell, and upon these 7000 broad acres it is intended to establish a town and colony upon coöperative principles. The town is to be located in the beautiful mesa land, east of Long Beach and the "American Colony." It will be named Brockton, after the projector of the scheme, and it is the intention to connect it with Compton by an extension of Forest Colony. Several gentlemen of means, energy and business experience are associated with Capt. Brock in this enterprise, and it will be pushed at a lively rate. The offices of the colony are with the California Land and Investment Company at rooms 29, 30, 31 and 33 Newell block, corner Main and Second streets, in this city.

Smallpox.

Health Officer Hagan was disgusted night before last at discovering a new case of smallpox on Castelar street—the first in three weeks. The patient is Estella Valdez, and she caught the disease from a cousin who came up from Lugo to visit her. She and her mother-in-law, the only other person in the house, have been removed to the hospital.

The last quarantine has been removed, and there is not a house in the city under surveillance. The Valdez woman is the only sick person in the hospital.

Undelivered Messages.

There are messages remaining uncalled for at the Western Union telegraph office, 17 North Main street for want of proper addresses, for the following persons: B. Bodielion, Mrs. Ira Crawford, J. E. Craig, Mrs. G. Dawson Coleman and Mrs. Samuel W. Dougherty.

ANOTHER DAY OF THE CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.

The Officers of the Law on the Situation—What Ex-Sheriff Gard Thought of the Actions at the White House.

The taking of testimony on behalf of Gen. Vandever, in the Lynch-Vandever contest, was resumed yesterday morning before Notary Seamans.

VICENTE SOTELO

sworn: I reside on New High street, and have lived in Los Angeles about twenty years. I was at the new depot polls nearly all day November 2d last. I saw something rather peculiar there. I was standing in a back yard and there was quite a crowd there, and among them Jesus Bilderrain. He was wanting some of them to vote, and offering to pay them after they had voted. But they did not want to do that. I saw him put men in line and stay with them. I asked some persons to vote the Republican ticket and they wanted money—said they could get it on the other side. I did not pay any money, because I did not have it.

Cross-examined: I don't remember exactly the time I saw Bilderrain talking to these persons. It was in the afternoon. I was working for the Republican ticket that day—inviting my friends to vote it.

G. H. LITTLE

sworn: I am a policeman, and have lived in Los Angeles county twelve years. Was a policeman at White House polls all day on November 2d last. I saw no disposition on the part of election officers to delay voting—none whatever. I stood by the door all day. There was no difficulty in voters getting away after they had voted. All they had to do was to pass under a rope and go away. I was absent long enough to get dinner and vote at the Fifth Ward. I saw Bilderrain and Abbott there. They made themselves very useful in taking men by the arm, leading them down Commercial street, bringing them back and putting them in line. I did not know these men—except two—Bill Justice and a man from Pasadena named Carr. This man got in line four or five times, and would come up almost to the polls and then for some reason he stepped out. The last time he got within one or two places from the polls and I had some trouble with another man. When I looked around this Carr was gone. I don't know whether he voted or not.

Cross-examined: I saw some Republican workers there, but I did not see them taking men away in the manner I have described.

H. S. CLEMENT

sworn: I have lived in Los Angeles about seven years. I voted at the White House about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon on November 2d last. There was quite a long line then. It extended around into Commercial street. It took me about half an hour to vote. There was no delay except in one instance, when an Irishman came in, said he had been in line twelve times and there was some trouble in getting him out.

Cross-examined: I should think there were a hundred or more in line when I took my place. The Irishman said he had been in line twelve times. He voted just before the polls closed.

F. B. FANNING

sworn: During the summer and fall of 1886 I was Deputy County Clerk of Los Angeles county. I was in the office a great deal and saw much of the registering going on. I saw nothing in any of the clerks or the principal of that office that indicated any unfairness toward any person on account of his politics.

S. ALTAMIRONO

sworn: I reside in Los Angeles, and was here in November, 1886. I voted at the White House early in the morning. There were few men in line at that time. I was there nearly all day. Saw no delay in voting. I saw several Democratic workers there, the Bilderrains and Abbott. I saw them put men in line. I know the second-hand clothing store on Commercial street. I saw men going in and coming out of there frequently with Bilderrain and Abbott. I can't swear to any one paying money there. I heard of it. I have lived here thirty-seven or thirty-eight years. I know most of the people in the White House ward. I saw voters from other places in line there [names two who came from New High street.] I don't know who brought them there.

Cross-examined: I was working for the Republican ticket that day. There were several others.

C. H. EDMONDS

sworn: I have lived here eleven years. I voted here last November. I was at the polls at the White House several times. I saw William Justice get in line several times and drop out again. No one was put in his place.

Cross-examined: Justice was drunk at the time.

T. J. DE PUY

sworn: I am a lawyer and reside in Los Angeles. I have lived here five years. I voted at the White House late in the afternoon last November. The line of voters extended around to Commercial street. I found no trouble in voting, and I thought the voting was proceeding quite rapidly. There were about sixty men in line, and I did not wait longer that twenty minutes, probably not over fifteen minutes.

GEORGE GARD

sworn: I was Sheriff of Los Angeles county last year, and a candidate for reelection at the election last November. I was at the White House polls nearly all day. I saw no attempt to delay voting on the part of the officers of election. I saw Bilderrain and Abbott there. The taking of men away and bringing them back into line, by Bilderrain, Abbott and others, was going on all day. They were taken to a second-hand store on Commercial street and to Mother Brown's place. These men put in line were Mexicans and tramps. One of them I knew to be an ex-convict, and had him arrested after he voted, but he got away from the officer. I put no one in line at all. I told Mr. Macy that I thought the way the change in precincts was made that it would decrease the vote at the White House. I felt that at the polls that day they were getting away with us because they had the coin, as I had reason to believe. I thought so, because of the way they took those men in, and they refused me access to the room where they took those men. Bilderrain had on a duster and coin in the pockets.

Cross-examined: There were not as many in line in the morning as later in the day. Many of these tramps I knew had not been in the precinct thirty days. I had some of them arrested, but for some mysterious reason they got off. I got information from two or three different parties that illegal registration was going on by deputy assessors.

Re-direct: Mr. Blennerhassett, who was in the Assessor's office, told me about the illegal registration; said that some affidavits were brought in and that he was required to make out a list or lists of men that he knew were not legal voters. He gave me one list containing nearly 100 names of such illegal voters.

I. R. DUNKELBERGER

sworn: I have lived here for eighteen years. Was a candidate for Supervisor last November. I was at six precincts on election day, principally at the courthouse, Turnverein Hall and the depot. I was at the last place about three hours. I could not direct on to it, but I was satisfied that [illegible]

There were others there. They had on long coats and the pockets sagged down, and I could see the impress of coin in the pockets. I saw them taking men over to the depot building and coming back with them.

IN A BOX.

A Young Man's Past Rises Against Him.

Way back in 1885 a certain young man was a clerk in a San Francisco commercial house. He seemed to be doing well and was evidently a happy, innocent man, but the old fellow who has been at the bottom of all the trouble that has ever held sway in this world tempted him, and today he is on the verge of a volcano. He fell in this way: A friend of his who was not acquainted at any of the San Francisco banks asked the doomed one to cash a draft for him. The check called for $125, was properly indorsed and placed in the young man's hands. He cashed the check and his tempter caused him to spend the money before he met his friend again. When they did meet a terrible scene took place. The young man, who had probably never committed a serious crime before, wept and begged to be given a chance to replace the money as soon as he could earn it. His deceived and enraged friend at last consented, and the young man was to repay the stolen money from his salary as fast as possible. The friend waited, but the fallen youth could not or would not save enough to make good the amount. The wronged man gave him every chance, but he was put off from time to time until he became angry once more, and a second quarrel, which was ten times more spirited than the first, took place.

The youth who took the money was then lost track of until a few days ago, when it was learned by the wronged friend that he was in Los Angeles.

The matter was put in the hands of an able detective, and the young man was found to be a confidential clerk in one of the largest commercial houses in this city.

Just after the second quarrel, in San Francisco, the young man resigned his position and left for the City of the Angels, thinking that by so doing he would escape the vengeance of his doubly-wronged friend.

Yesterday he was called on by the officer, into whose hands the case had been put. A demand was made for the money, but he at once began to plead the baby act, and wept out a long story about how he had married into a respectable family, who would be disgraced if the matter should be carried to the criminal courts. He promised to do all in his power to repay the money out of his salary. He was not even willing to make a confession to his wife's family, who are well able to assist him. The gentleman whom he wronged is now in Los Angeles, and has made up his mind to swear out a complaint unless the money is paid today. He has been fooled so often that he has made up his mind to stand no more nonsense, and it is said that he is a very hard man when he is thoroughly aroused. The young man moves in the best society in Los Angeles, and is highly respected and honored by all who know him. If the matter is not settled today the whole thing will be ventilated tomorrow. The names of all the parties are in the possession of THE TIMES, but will be withheld unless the young man is arrested.

JUMPED MARTIN,

But the Plucky Little Constable Conquered.

A fight that came mighty near ending in a terrible tragedy took place about 5 o'clock last evening, in Nelson's saloon, on Alliso street. Frank Nelson and B. Kelly were having a little dispute, when Constable Martin Aguirre entered, and both men turned on him. One of them fired a chair at him, and the other one proceeded to pummel the overpowered officer in the most approved style. Finally Aguirre became tired of such work, when he pulled his pistol and proceeded to club the two ruffians in his own peculiar way. In a very short space of time the officer had them overpowered, and their bloody forms were loaded into an express wagon and carted off to the County Jail.

Dried Up.

The Dry Sparkling Champagne Company appeared in Justice Austin's court yesterday afternoon. That is, several ex-members of the firm and the "doctor's" attorney put in an appearance and looked like they meant business, for the brief sharp was loaded down with law books and lengthy legal documents. They looked about the room in a confident manner, and yet a judge of human nature could plainly see that this confidence did not extend more than skin deep. When the much-talked-of case of H. W. Stowell & Bro. vs. The Dry Sparkling Champagne Company was called, it was announced that the case was about to be compromised, and it was. The defendants, the late Dry, etc., paid the bill, amounting to $27.50, and the plaintiff paid the costs, amounting to $4.50.

Carpenters' Hall.

The members of Carpenters' Union, No. 56, have decided to erect a hall that will be a credit alike to Los Angeles and to organized labor. The structure will be of brick, two stories high, 50x125 feet. The façade will be of pressed brick with granite trimmings, and the cornice will be of galvanized iron. The upper floor will contain a large meeting hall, 48x110, with three ante-rooms and a movable stage. The lower floor will be divided into two stores, and the rear end will be used as a clubroom and library. The Carpenters' Hall Association has been duly incorporated, and the directors are authorized to purchase a building site forthwith.

LIEUT. DANENHOWER.

THE ROMANCE OF HIS YOUTHFUL LOVE RECALLED.

A Los Angeles Belle Who Fell in Love with the Arctic Explorer, and Married Him After He Was Rescued.

Yesterday's Associated Press dispatches brought the news of the suicide, at Annapolis, of Lieut. John W. Danenhower, the Arctic explorer. The matter has a special local interest, from the fact that Miss Sloane, who subsequently married Lieut. Danenhower, and is now left with two children to mourn his loss, was a resident of Los Angeles. In connection with their romantic story, the following article, from the issue of this paper of December 22, 1881, will be found interesting:

AN EARLY ROMANCE.

For more than eighteen months past a beautiful and accomplished young lady of this city, the lovely and romance-inspiring footstool of the angels, has been in a constant state of hope and despair. The news received night before last from the wandering Jeannette has sent gladness and sorrow to many a breast; but to the young lady in question it has created the most anxious fears. Yesterday, just before the San Francisco train pulled out, a matronly old lady might have been seen supporting a heavily-veiled young woman. They were evidently mother and daughter, from the tender and motherly manner in which the elder lady looked after the slightest want of her companion. A TIMES reporter, noticing the couple, surmised that the young lady was laboring under a great mental sorrow. He looked toward the coach from which the ladies had just alighted and saw that it was a private carriage.

His curiosity was aroused. He approached and cautiously interrogated the driver. The old coachman was very reticent, and the newsgatherer was about to give up in despair, when an idea struck him. He put it into execution at once, by telling the old man that his interest in the two ladies had been aroused, from the fact that he believed he saw a family resemblance between himself and them. "I just arrived here the other day," said the reporter, "and I have every reason to believe that that elder lady is a very near relation of mine."

This had the desired effect, and the poor old man unfolded a story of romance in real life that never occurs more than once in a century. It seems that Miss —— was visiting friends in San Francisco during the winter of 1878-'79. She met Lieut. Danenhower, of the U.S.N., a noble specimen of manhood. The Lieutenant was smitten with the fair daughter of Los Angeles. They met often, and the sequel was soon evident in a desperate love affair. But the old saying that true love never ran smooth was never more plainly illustrated than in this case.

For several months there was not a happier pair in all San Francisco. This earthly bliss could not last long, however. The Lieutenant was under orders to sail with the ill-fated Jeannette. As the time drew near the sweet girl became sad and pensive, and it was a common thing for her to meet her lover with tearful eyes. She told him her fears, and pleaded with all the eloquence known to a lovely maiden, but her lover had been ordered by his country to go to almost certain death, and his honor would not permit him to break his word, even for the being he worshiped. The sad day of separation finally arrived, and the two devoted lovers parted, possibly never to meet again in this world.

This is the sad story told in brief by the old coachman, who related his tale with tears in his eyes.

"Yes, sir," said the old fellow, "she has been a different girl ever since. They had only known one another a short time, but I don't believe two people ever loved as did this devoted couple. Why, sir, her mother said that when the Lieutenant came to bid her good-bye it took two of his brother officers to separate them when the moment of parting came. She fainted almost as soon as he was out of the house. When she revived she ordered a carriage and immediately repaired to the Cliff House. As soon as she arrived there she took a stand where she could get a good view of the Golden Gate. Neither commands nor coaxing could move her until she was satisfied the vessel had passed out to sea.

"After returning to Los Angeles she led a retired life, having been convinced from the first that she would never see her lover again. She has never failed to be up by daylight since the Jeannette sailed in order to read the telegraphic news. That, sir, has been the only thing that has ever interested her. When she got THE TIMES this morning and read the news from the Jeannette, you might have heard her screams almost a mile off. The whole family were in bed at the time. When they reached her she was in a faint, and everybody thought she was dead. But God was not kind enough to put the poor girl out of her misery. The first thing she said was: 'Mamma, take me to San Francisco at once.' She don't seem to know what she wants, but her mother would start for the spot where the Jeannette was lost, if her daughter would ask it."

"How old is she?"

"She was 19 last October, but to look at her now, you would think she was at least 30."

The young lady is well known in this city, and up to within the past two years was one of the brightest and most beautiful of the Los Angeles belles. Her name is suppressed for the present, and her unfortunate love affair is known to but few, as the family have made every effort to keep it quiet.

For the sake of the girl, if for no other reason, it is most devoutly hoped that the third boat, with the gallant Lieutenant and his brother officers, will yet be saved.

This is probably one of the saddest stories that has ever been chronicled on the Pacific coast. The young lady's sad history is very similar to Lady Franklin's, and she will undoubtedly receive great sympathy from the feminine portion of the whole country.

NOTES OF A MOST REMARKABLE GROWTH.

Quiet Old Valley Slowly Waking to Activity—Fresh Rural Beauty—Montecito and Carpenteria—New Business Houses.

MONTECITO, April 19.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Life is very quiet here in the beautiful valley. The stillness of its shaded ways is broken by bird-song and the tinkling music of running brooks. In portions the chaparral still grows dense and rank. The old oaks lift their broad tops to the sunshine. The wild vines grow in multitudinous numbers. Wild flowers weave fragrant mosaics. The ceanothus, covered with its purple and white bloom, fills the air with fragrance. The sumach pours forth its aromatic breath. The mountains lift their granite fronts, and, in the glare of noon, show scarred and rocky faces, as if Time had run his plowshare down their sides; while the sea, the broad, beautiful blue sea, stretches, calm and bright, along the valley shores, wearing its diadem of islands. But life is by no means unprogressive here. New suburban homes are multiplying. Orchards stretch farther and farther down the valley slopes. Fresh young vineyards are set out in their tender foliage, and real estate is still in the hands of its agents, and rapidly changing hands. On Ortega hill, front- ing the house where I am stopping, rises a derrick, looking like an old church steeple, but the white puffs of steam issuing from it tells me that the drill is at work, and is steadily penetrating the bosom of mother earth, seeking for her treasure of oil. Twelve miles away the graders are at work preparing a pathway for the iron horse, whose coming will soon break the silence of this loveliest of valleys.

Land has more than trebled in value within the last few months in this valley. Improved lands are held at $1000 per acre, while the wild and uncleared land, with its rank growth of chapparal, cannot be bought for less than $200 per acre. A new method is to clear some of this chapparal land, lying far up upon the foothill slopes on the eastern part of the valley, and build thereon a pretty suburban retreat. I passed the site yesterday and found the graders at work on the broad, new roads, one of which will skirt the hillside, running northeast and southwest along the base of the mountains. The new town will be called Buena Vista, and will be rightly named, for the view will sweep the valley's length and a wide extent of sea and mountain. It is a little to the west of and from Mr. Tabor's place in the Montecito.

A new road from the Hot Springs to the ocean has been opened through the valley, running in quite a direct line from the high point to the beach. It stretches through wooded copse and across pleasant lawns, and is as charming a way as one could wish to traverse.

I was told by one of the real-estate men of Santa Barbara that the sale of the Hot Springs property, announced some time ago in the local papers, has not been fully consummated, although the probabilities are that it will be ultimately effected. This sale includes not only the Hot Springs property proper, but all of the old Band ranch, portions of which are highly improved. As the property is going the price asked, $100,000, is considered high.

Among the many rumored improvements that are to be made, is the alleged project of the railroad company of creating an inland harbor, where ships can lie safely at all times, no matter in what direction the wind may be, and where they can unload their cargoes directly upon the line of railroad. The point designated as the site of the proposed new harbor is the low-lying land formerly occupied by the old race track, eastward from the Bradley place. This land, during the high spring tides, is often completely overflowed. The intention, it is said, is to dredge it and to make a channel deep enough for the largest ships running on the coast to enter. This improvement, if made at all, will not be accomplished at once. But it is a project that is entirely feasible, although it would require considerable expenditure of money. It would be of immense value to Santa Barbara, as it would give her an harbor equal to that of San Diego's land-locked bay for safety, but of course not comparing with it in extent.

The new town of Carpenteria will soon be an established fact, and no lovelier townsite can be found upon this coast. The broad and fertile valley of the Carpenteria lies behind it, as well as the majestic upheaval of mountains. Lofty Mt. Hoar will, with its protecting shadow beside it, and the sea will stretch out in its vastness to its front. I prophesy for it a future of quick growth and prosperity.

In writing of the new organizations in Santa Barbara in my last letter I spoke of the Society of Natural History and the Horticultural and Agricultural societies. I did not wish to be understood that these were fully-organized bodies, as they have not yet in existence for ten years, but that they were newly and legally incorporated, with powers to transact all business as corporate societies. They are all in a prosperous condition, and prepared to do good work for the causes which they foster. The Mid-Fair will open on Wednesday. The grounds have been against it, but still it is decided to make it a show that will reflect great discredit upon Santa Barbara. The weather is now on its good behavior. Never were fairer skies or greener fields than those that smile here.

There have been established during the present year within the limits of Santa Barbara some ten or fifteen new business houses. Among these is a new savings bank, which promises well for the future. Messrs. A. & C. S. Hawley's establishment, dealers in hardware, building materials, agricultural implements, carriages, etc. This firm represents a vast amount of capital, and is progressive and public-spirited.

The real-estate offices have multiplied ad infinitum. The crop of real-estate men are not at all lank nor lean. They are ready to pounce upon the "tenderfoot," and to extract the contents of his purse in consideration of land and climate. They waited long, but their time has come at last.

Santa Barbara has one more beautiful feature which I admire, and which I set down to the credit of her wise intelligence. She does not indulge in any jealousy of the prosperity of Los Angeles. She puts San Francisco to shame in this respect. She is clear-sighted enough to perceive that the prosperity of any portion of this southern section of the State will, indirectly at least, benefit her own, and so she rejoices with the world is glad in our rapid advancement. And I am glad to see that the day-star of prosperity is already shining in her sky, and that marching empire is knocking at her gates.

Magic Azusa.

Mr. Slauson's sales of acre property at Azusa yesterday amounted to the enormous aggregate of $106,155, the land being sold at a uniform rate of $300 per acre, and purchasers taking their choice at that price. Besides this there were sold town lots to the amount of $2000. Mr. Slauson says that the sales were made in his office at Azusa without going out of the office at all, and that no one to help him but "Jim." The sales are to continue at his office in this city and at his office in Azusa tomorrow.

Escondido.*

Where mountains hoar
To the sounding shore
Roll back its song sublime;
Where golden names,
Like elfin flames
From the wizard vaults of Time,
Tell of the hour,
When, in her power,
Old Spain, with lance in rest,
Flung to the breeze,
O'er land and seas,
Her proud and haughty crest!
Where sunny dells,
Where summer dwells,
Ope wide their portals high;
Where, poised in air,
Their masses rear
Beneath the azure sky,
The giants old
Whose summits bold
Keep watch and ward afar,
In the silent night,
By the moon's pale light,—
The heights of Palomar.
'Tis there to rest,
'Tis the first, the best.
'Tis hid no longer now;
For the trump of Fame
A living flame
Has lit around its brow;
Its bosom green,
Its sky serene
No cyclone tears along;
In slumber deep
Its beauties sleep,
'Twill ever live in song.
Then, Westward ho!
Where soft winds blow,
Where Spring and Summer meet
To smile away
Cold Winter's sway—
To chase, with flying feet,
The snows that rest
On the mountain's breast—
The glad new year to hail;
Then, Westward ho!
And Westward still
To the golden sunlit vale!

Name-carving at Harrow School.

[Elizabeth Robins Pennell in St. Nicholas.]

The old schoolhouse at Harrow is still standing. There is a room downstairs where all the boys, in the early days, had their classes. But now it is only used two or three times a week, when masters and scholars assemble in it for prayers. It is a long, narrow room, with high, old-fashioned windows. The walls are wainscoted, and all over the wainscoting, and on the benches and desks, on the masters' tables, and even on the head-master's chair, schoolboys for the last 300 years have carved their names. Some of these names are large and sprawly, others small and neat; and they are so close together that there is no space left for any new ones to be added. On one side, in very large letters, Byron's name is cut in two different places, and near it is that of Peel, the great English statesman. The boys were really forbidden to do this; and every name, you may be sure, represents a good punishment. But the masters are now glad that the boys were disobedient, for many became famous in after life, and their schoolboy carvings are pointed out with pride. Harrovians, as Harrow boys are called, now have their names carved for them on new panels fastened to the wall for the purpose, and they think it quite an honor.

THE TEACHERS.

FURTHER PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY INSTITUTE.

The Interesting Proceedings of the Annual Convention of Pedagogues—State Superintendent Hoitt's Instructive Lecture.

The fourth day's session of the Los Angeles County Teachers' Institute was conducted in accordance with the programme in the usual sections. Early in the morning the teachers were glad to see the pleasant face of State Superintendent Hoitt, who arrived last night from San Bernardino.

GRAMMAR SECTION.

The first half of the forenoon was occupied by Prof. Ludlam with instruction on the culture of the voice. Many examples were given to show what wonderful power the human voice may gain, and to inspire teachers with a desire to improve their own. After recess Mr. A. W. Plummer, principal of the Central School, gave a most practical exposition of the teaching of physiology. The purpose in studying physiology is self-knowledge, to the end of preserving health. Text-book study by itself is of little value. We must go directly to nature. Mr. Plummer exhibited a dissected cat, and showed how he would give pupils a chance to gain a knowledge of bones, muscles, arteries and nerves, by direct examination. Mr. Plummer's exercise was greatly appreciated.

Mr. F. H. Clark concluded the morning's work with a few words on literature. This is essentially the ground for advanced study. The purpose in the lower grades must be to furnish readable books to children. The school library affords this opportunity, and careful attention should be given to the selection of books.

INTERMEDIATE SECTION.

The subject of language was treated by Mr. James B. Finch, of Santiago district. The ideas set forth elicited considerable discussion, which occupied the time until recess. Mr. M. C. Bettinger, of Los Angeles, introduced the subject of spelling. Animated discussion followed upon the rival merits of oral and written excercises, the prevailing sentiment being in favor of written work.

Superintendent C. T. Meredith spoke on geography, and explained the use of the sand-tray and the process of modeling in putty. He exhibited a highly creditable relief map of South America, the work of his former pupils.

PRIMARY SECTION.

After the roll-call Superintendent C. T. Meredith gave advice on teaching division. There seemed no reason to him why this subject should be hard to teach. Practice will make long-division as well understood as any other portion of the work.

Miss Carrie Bruere gave a fascinating exercise in language. Discussion was awakened on the value of diacritical marks. No decision was reached.

Prof. Ludlam then occupied the time of the section until noon with further advice on training in reading.

Afternoon exercises were opened with a vocal solo by Miss Florence Ellis.

Hon. Ira G. Hoitt, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was introduced. The gentleman expressed his pleasure at meeting the teachers of Los Angeles county. He had heard for the past two years of the growth and enterprise of this section; from what he had already seen he was convinced that the boom in educational matters has already begun. The representatives of Los Angeles county in the late Legislature were complimented for their zeal in educational matters. The last Legislature has done more than any of its predecessors for education.

Better provision is being made for the school fund. The maximum rates allowed by law will be levied this year as a State school tax, making the State school fund much larger than last year.

The recent amendments to the School Law in regard to certificates were explained. Instead of the present first and second grade certificates, there will be: First—A grammar-course certificate, authorizing to teach in any school. Second—A grammar certificate, equivalent to the present first-grade certificate, and authorizing to teach in any grammar or primary school. Third—A primary certificate, equivalent to the present second-grade certificate, and authorizing to teach in primary schools only.

The use of the State text-books, already published as supplemental books, was advised, until present contracts in text-books expire. Superintendent Hoitt stated clearly his preference for a system of State text-books. He believed that not only should the State provide the text-books, but it should furnish them to pupils free of cost.

The teacher's influence must be felt throughout the school. His character should leave its impress on that of the pupils. The superintendent must not superintend the schools to death. An opportunity must be left for the teacher's individuality.

Not only must the minds of children be trained—the children must be made young gentlemen and ladies.

In spite of the greater gains of other professions, teachers should remember that their profession is the place for the greatest good to humanity.

Superintendent Hoitt offered to answer any questions relative to school matters, and a question of disputed salary was brought up. It seems that there is an attempt on the part of the trustees of Norwalk district to withhold a teacher's salary for legal holidays coming within the school month. The Superintendent gave his opinion that the salary ought to be paid.

After the recess Miss Lottie Clark entertained the assembly with a pleasant song.

Prof. Melville Dozier delivered an able lecture on "The Importance of Teaching Civil Government in the Public Schools."

Man is by nature a social being. Such are the laws of his being that he can not be happy in a state of isolation. But man is an imperfect being and possessed of certain natural rights. Both of these conditions involve the necessity of some system of government by the operations of which the natural and acquired rights of the prudent and the just members of society may be protected against the cupidity and the injustice of the opposite class. To secure these ends primarily, civil government had to be established, so that civil government in some form is a necessity incident to man's nature and essential to his development.

For many centuries patriarchal government held sway over a very large majority of the human family. The slow but irresistible progress of civilization, however, by gradually developing in the minds of men the idea that they were born with certain inalienable rights, has succeeded, first by consent, and then by custom, and then by positive enactment, in building up a series of limitations to the absolute power of autocrats; and, as a consequence, the limited monarchy has gradually supplanted the unlimited. From these the idea of self-government has grown. This glorious consummation has been realized on a magnificent scale in our own proud land. This best of governments lays its claim upon teachers for thorough study and full consideration in the schoolroom.

At the conclusion of Prof. Dozier's address the institute was by motion adjourned, although the programme for the afternoon was not completed. In spite of the adjournment several announcements were made relative to the work of the session.

THE LECTURE.

State Superintendent Hoitt Talks Instructively.

A good audience assembled last evening to listen to the lecture on "Progress in Popular Education" by State Superintendent Ira G. Hoitt. The lecture was most pleasantly introduced by a song, "Take Me, Jamie Dear," by Mrs. Beeson, and by a recitation, "Archie Dear," nicely rendered by Mrs. Ludlam:

Progress in education means progress of the world. The story of the "Seven Sleepers" illustrates the progress of two hundred years. The onward movement of human progress does not always have the same velocity. There are shallows, rapids and eddies in the river of Time. No arts of any benefit to man have ever been lost. One modern engine is worth more than the power that built the pyramids. Those arts which were lost were not worth preserving. The Alexandrian library was burned and mediæval monks destroyed classical manuscripts, but the best modern knowledge proves that the works destroyed were not worth lamenting. Books found in Herculaneum are occupied largely with cookery and carving, of interest only to a race of epicures. Difference between ages is shown not by difference between the greatest men, but by the difference between the masses. There is more practical knowledge in a California schoolhouse than in the whole Peloponnesus or the Valley of the Nile.

Progress in education is shown by the higher value of the application of mathematics and science to the affairs of life. In ancient times books were studied for the pleasure of the scholar, not for improvement in life. Ancient philosophy sought to steel men to the endurance of physical pain, not to produce physical comfort.

Now, abstract speculation has given place to useful invention; brute force to labor-saving machinery. Science explores everywhere. Nothing is too high or too low for her. Anglo-Saxon energy and enterprise, Anglo-Saxon principles are spreading their conquests in all countries.

The higher education of woman is one of the prominent characteristics of modern progress. The high appreciation of woman has resulted from the principles of the Teutonic race. A position in the primary schoolroom is indisputably a woman's province. Nature never designed man for the care of small children.

The introduction of music is another mark of educational progress. Music is a recreation, as well as a science. It makes the school pleasant to every one.

The architecture of schoolhouses shows a higher regard for the influence of beauty. Trees have a controlling moral influence. There is more of divinity in the voice of nature than in the tongues of men. Trees should find their place in every schoolyard.

But magnificent buildings, costly libraries and beautiful surroundings will never take the place of unremitting toil. There is no golden key but labor. If we would make the most of life we must remember that whatever lacks purpose is evil. There is no excellence without great labor.

At the conclusion of the lecture the audience desired another recitation by Prof. Ludlam. In response "How Reuben Played" was recited in Prof. Ludlam's perfect style.

Hurt on the Railroad.

One of the San Gabriel Valley Railroad employés, whose name could not be learned, was seriously injured at Pasadena yesterday afternoon while working on the switch. His back and side were terribly mangled, and it was feared by the physician who attended him that his spine was injured. He was brought to this city and taken to the County Hospital. At a late hour last night he was not expected to live until morning.

A Deadly Weapon.

The shrill cry of murder called Officer Lindheimer in a hurry to 315 Alameda street about 9 o'clock last night. Entering, he found W. Benoise flourishing a big navy revolver, with which Laura Le Claire, a prostitute, said her life had been threatened. The man denied any deadly intentions, but was marched to the police station and locked up on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He was not drunk.

Bold Theft.

A bold theft was committed yesterday afternoon at the Morris Vineyard tract. Two cows and a horse were stolen from a poor man named Walter. He reported his loss at the police station, but no news of the whereabouts of the stock had been received at a late hour last night.

Railroads—Notes and Observations.

Vice-President C. W. Smith, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad, who has been interviewed, says there is absolutely no truth in the report that his company proposes to build an independent line to San Francisco. The Atchison people have a twenty-five years' contract with the Southern Pacific, whereby the latter is to carry its passengers and freight to San Francisco, and this, Mr. Smith professes, is good enough. He also disclaims any direct interest on the part of his company in the Ballona Harbor scheme, and acknowledges an incidental interest only to the extent that a branch road is to be built to the harbor. As to the talked-of line of steamers between Ballona and San Francisco, to compete with the Southern Pacific Railroad, he scouts it.

Of course it will be somewhat disappointing to San Francisco to learn that she cannot catch on to the era of railroad competition and secure such a grand developer and builder of booms as the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé line, but she had better cover her mortification by blowing about the Northern Citrus Belt and deprecating the appearance of smallpox in Los Angeles.

San Francisco had her day of triumph when Los Angeles was ground into the mire. San Francisco did not possess that irregular factor known as railroad competition, it is true, but she had what she considered better—railroad monopoly. This she nursed and petted and admired and upheld, because the monopoly discriminated in her favor, to the disadvantage, and even ruin, of interior places. It was all right that the State should be bullied and pillaged so long as San Fran ... s called in to share the loot.

Now, it is just possible that the metropolis is waking up to a knowledge of the fact that, in trying to force herself ahead by keeping the rest of the State back, she made a grievous mistake. With her interior commercial relations broken, her trade languishing, her energies palsied, the monopoly, erstwhile so cherished, proving a millstone about her neck to drag her down, there is little wonder that she reaches out her hands to grasp at straws of railroad competition. And if the straws prove illusive—why, generally speaking, we are sorry for her.

There is, however, some retribution in this, and we must confess to being vindictive enough to enjoy it just a little. The mills of the gods, which have been waiting a long time for repairs, are now making some very fine flour.

Columbus, O., is talking of converting one of her horse-car lines into an electric railroad, and, as the thoroughfare in which it runs is such a busy one as to preclude the use of poles and an overhead wire, the plan suggested is that which makes use of a third rail in the center of the track. This third rail carries the electricity, but the current is not so strong as to injure people touching it. Appliances are in use to carry the current by wire over cross-streets, so as to avoid the possibility of bad results from horses being shocked in passing over it. The electric motor is said to be very economical in operating expenses, and cars can be run at a speed of ten miles an hour, while heavy loads are drawn, and grades impossible to steam cars may be overcome.

Anything that tends to supply a missing link in electrical engineering should be hailed with satisfaction the world over. The main, and, in fact, almost the only drawback to the electric road as now operated is the cumbersome and unsightly system of poles involved. Remove this and the electric line stands forth as about the acme of city motor lines. The facility with which it is operated, the high speed attainable, the easy starting and stopping, whereby no perceptible jar is imparted to the coaches—all these points combine to make it popular. As to the economy of power involved and all that sort of thing, it may be settled by those versed in the technicalities of railroading. It is claimed, however, by Col. Howland, the builder and ...anager of the Los Angeles electric ... that it is far cheaper in con- ... and more economical in ...an the cable line.

Good and Bad Fruit.

The San Diego Sun thus propounds the law and the gospel to California orange-growers, and its little sermon is true to the last word. The Sun says:

"Chicago market reports indicate better prices for the best quality of oranges. But it is reported that 'there is a good deal of difference in the quality and general character of the fruit. Some of it is very smutty.' This is unfortunate in the extreme. The interests of California in the orange trade are plain. We should establish a high reputation for our oranges, and thus place them in greater demand than oranges from Florida or other sections of the country. We grow the fruit and can make a better showing than anybody if there is a desire and united action in that direction. And there certainly should be such desire and action. California is to be the greatest orange field in the world, and, producing the oranges, she will want a market for them. Now, with fruit of equal quality, we concede that California cannot compete with Florida in the markets of Chicago and New York. Florida can undersell us there because of the natural difference in freight rates. Interstate Commerce Bill or no Interstate Commerce Bill, we never can expect to get the same rate from California to New York that they get from Florida to New York. That is not to be expected. We shall have to get higher prices for our oranges to make up for the extra freight charges. And the way to get higher prices is to send better fruit, and thus establish a high reputation for our produce. This being the case, certainly no 'smutty' stuff should be sent out for sale. Only the best fruit should be forwarded, and by this means a high reputation and high prices will be established and may be maintained."

IT is the part of superficial people to raise a hue and cry against the Interstate Commerce Law and call for its immediate suspension, so far as possible, and its ultimate abrogation. This, it seems to us, would be a very foolish procedure. The railroad companies have placed their own construction on the law, and they may have done this with the especial purpose of rendering it odious with the people. Now let the commissioners appointed by the Government try their hands at it and see where the line may finally be drawn. Then, if the law needs amendment, amend it. One thing is certain; the recognition of the principle of controlling railroads by the Government is very valuable to the people of the United States, and ought not to be given up on a mere whim. Either the country must control the railroads or the railroads will control the country.

THERE is an interesting case pending in the Federal Court at Indianapolis, Ind. Several months ago William F. Watkins murdered Louis Hilbert at Aurora, and was almost immediately hanged by a mob. William M. Gibson, the administrator of his estate, has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Jacob Kirch, William Gerloch and eight others, who are alleged to have been instrumental in the hanging. Maj. Gordon, who is one of their attorneys, has filed an answer to the complaint, alleging both in justification and mitigation in respective paragraphs that, by reason of his crime (premeditated murder) "Watkins's whole natural life was forfeited and due to the State of Indiana, and no other person under heaven than the State had any legal estate, interest, right or title in or to the same, and the same was no pecuniary value in law to his wife or children."

THE Canadian people are not all daft on the fisheries question, as witness the following from the St. Johns (New Brunswick) Globe of a recent date:

"The country will soon wake up to the folly of the government's policy in regard to the fisheries. This journal at one time, almost single-handed, dissented from that policy. It was a policy which began in neglect, has been followed in ignorance, and is now being pushed to the verge of what seems almost like insanity. We are glad to find some signs of awakening to our danger. We warn the people of the maritime provinces that the first act on the part of our officials to harass American trade will, in all probability, compel the President to put in force the law, and that the burden will fall upon vessels and trade in these three provinces."

An Arizona Deputy Sheriff Murdered.

Gigantic Operations of the Wheat Corner at San Francisco.

Valuables Recovered from the Ruins of Hotel Del Monte.

Firebugs Again Busy at Santa Rosa—More Distinguished Visitors at San Francisco—Officers Elected by the Native Sons—Other Coast News.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.), April 21.—[Special.] From private intelligence it was learned today that George Monroe, formerly of this city, but at the time of his death a Deputy Sheriff of Mojave county, Ariz., had been shot and killed by G. W. Scott, a hotel-keeper. Monroe had been boarding with Scott while in charge of the jail, and Scott having taken umbrage at some remark made by Monroe in a joke about food at the table, answered in such an ill-natured manner that the quarrel culminated in a flood of hard words on either side. Monroe, being a good-natured man, left the hotel in order to settle the quarrel, and boarded elsewhere. The next day, while Monroe was in the saloon of Harvey Hubbs, just across the road from Scott's place, Scott saw him, and, procuring a Winchester rifle, stepped behind the door of the saloon and took deliberate aim at Monroe. At this moment some person called to Monroe to look out for Scott, and Monroe, turning about, just had time to draw his pistol and fire one shot, which went wide of the mark, for, as he turned, a ball from Scott's weapon went through his body, entering the abdomen and smashing the backbone. Scott was at once arrested by Sheriff Kuenker, who hurried him into the jail just in time to escape a mob, which had organized within ten minutes of the killing, to revenge the death of Monroe, so popular was he both as an officer and citizen. There is likely to be further trouble unless Scott is removed to a more secure place than the Mojave County Jail.

OPERA AT 'FRISCO.

Orpheus and Eurydice Presented to an Immense Audience.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—[Special.] The National Opera Company gave Gluck's Orpheus and Eurydice tonight. This was the first time it was ever presented in this city. The audience was the largest of the week. The scenic effects could not be surpassed in any theater in the world, and the ballet called forth the wildest applause. All the newspapers here are beginning to acknowledge that the company is in its ensemble the finest ever seen on this coast, and enthusiasm is gaining day by day. Tomorrow night there will be a production of Lohengrin, for which all seats are already sold.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS,

Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, and suite and the Austrian Princess, now staying here, have secured two boxes so that the representation promises to be one of the most brilliant ever placed before a San Francisco audience. RUS.

FIREBUGS.

Their Presence in Santa Rosa Again Made Manifest.

SANTA ROSA, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] A large barn, belonging to J. H. Glenn, containing sixty tons of hay, was burned to the ground last night. The hay was valued at $600. No insurance. How the fire originated is not known. The barn could not have been set on fire accidentally, unless by tramps sleeping there. While the fire was still raging in the hay-barn, and the entire fire department was engaged, an attempt was made to burn the new Hahmann building, on Fourth street, next to the Athenæum. Two gentlemen were standing in front of the building, when their attention was called to a light in a grocery store on the ground floor. They immediately broke through one of the front windows, entered and succeeded in extinguishing the flames before any damage had been done. The appearance of the place indicated beyond doubt that the store had been entered and the fire started by an incendiary. The floor was saturated with coal oil for several feet around the stove, and a box filled with shavings was also saturated and ignited.

TREASURE IN THE RUINS.

Valuables Recovered from the Ashes of the Del Monte Hotel.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Since the 3d of this month search has been in progress in the ruins of the Del Monte Hotel, at Monterey, for valuables lost in the destructive fire. It was estimated, after the fire, that at least $100,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry were buried in the ruins. Up to the present time about $20,000 worth of diamonds, jewelry and effects have been recovered. A pair of bracelets, with large solitaire diamonds, was found yesterday. A quantity of rings, perfectly preserved, were also found. A large black diamond onyx pin was found several days ago. Considerable coin has been discovered in the ruins. Revolvers, with their handles burned off, knives, toilet articles, ivory, hair and nail brushes, fancy scissors, opera-glasses, all descriptions of jewelry, and many valuable jewels have been recovered.

NATIVE SONS.

Proposed Extension of the Order Beyond the State Defeated.

NEVADA, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] At the morning's session of the Grand Parlor, N. S. G. W., a resolution, providing for the organization of parlors outside of the State, was taken up. The resolution provides, among other things, that all members of such parlors shall take an obligation that they will not vote in favor of holding the Grand Parlor outside of the State of California, or in favor of giving any authority over such parlors, except to this Grand Parlor. An amendment was offered to the resolution so as to include only Pacific Coast States.

A vote being taken, the resolution was lost by 82 to 51.

At the afternoon session Fresno was decided upon as the place for holding the next Grand Parlor.

Hydraulic Parlor, No. 56, N. S. G. W., last night presented Senator Caminetti, of Amador, with a handsome gold pin, in recognition of his legislative efforts in behalf of the hydraulic miners.

Among the passengers on the City of Sydney were Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, nephew of Emperor William of Germany; Prince Louis Esterhazy of Austria, and their suites, who are making a tour of the world.

THE WHEAT CORNER.

Startling Statements of the Ring's Great Operations.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Regarding the wheat corner in California, the Call tomorrow will say: "The shipment of wheat is blocked. Flour shipments are totally suspended. Our orders from South and Central America, placed at the limit, have ceased, and are now supplied by the Chilian products, while China orders were received by wire yesterday, absolutely countermanding further shipments. The stocks of flour in the State are less than would supply a two-weeks demand. The statement is made by a person in every respect competent that advances made by the Nevada bank include at least 150,000 tons of wheat in California warehouses, 60 to 70 cargoes en route, between this city and Liverpool, and as many more in that port; also that the same parties had dropped their Chicago deal at about 85 cents for May, and had cleared $500,000; that their profits to date, based upon present prices, were $1,500,000 and that they had not less than $4,000,000 locked up in their present transactions.

OUTDOOR SPORTS.

Third Day of the Blood-horse Association's Meeting—Four Races Over a Sticky Track—The Ball Field.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRACISCO, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] For the third day's racing of the Blood-horse Association there was an attractive programme. The day was a most pleasant one, but the track was sticky in some places and decidedly slow. Betting was up to the average of previous days and the attendance was good.

The first race, mile and an eighth, purse $350, all ages, brought out a small field, consisting of Aurelia, Nielson, Ad L. Nickelson and Adeline. Aurelia sold favorite over the field. They were sent off at the first attempt to an even start. Adeline shot to the front and kept the lead to the head of the stretch, when Aurelia took up the running and won in a canter by three lengths, Nielson second, Adeline third. Time, 1:59.

Second race, Gano stakes, 2-year-olds, three-quarters of a mile—They were sent off at the second attempt to a straggling start, in which Surinam had three lengths the best of it. Geraldine was second, the others strung out. Surinam and Geraldine led to the three-quarters, when the others closed up the gap. They were all driving hard coming down the stretch. At the draw gate Sobrante forged ahead and won by a length from Snowdrop, Pocatello third. Time, 1:16½. Snowdrop was the favorite and got away nearly last, but made a capital run. There were only nine starters. Serpolette and McGinnis were scratched.

The third race, Spirit of the Times stakes, for 3-year-olds, mile and three-quarters, brought out a field of six, Not Idle being drawn. Del Norte, on the strength of Saturday's victory, was installed prime favorite. Rathbone was first away to a splendid start. The order past the stand was: Rathbone, Robson, Safe Ban, Del Norte, Todd and Leap Year. This order was not much changed till the half-mile post was reached, when the leaders gave place to Robson and Del Norte, who were well in the lead when they turned into the stretch for home. Del Norte had an easy task from here home and won by a length, quite a struggle being made for second place, Todd finally getting there ahead of Leap Year, third. Time, 3:10.

In the fourth race, selling purse, three-quarters of a mile heats, all ages, seven started. Sir Thad was drawn. Ninena won the first heat easily; Kenny second; Gardner third. Time 1:17. In the second heat, Tom Atchison was drawn. Leap Year won after an exciting finish from Ninena second, Gardner third. Time, 1:16¾. In the third heat they raced evenly till near home, when Ninena came forward, winning the heat and race easily, Leap Year second. Time, 1:18.

English Ladies Attend a Political Meeting and Witness a Free Fight—The Pope Seeking to Get Dr. McGlynn Back into the Fold—Foreign Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PARIS, April 21.—[By Cable and the Associated Press.] M. Schnaebeles, special French commissiary at the Pagny-sur-Moselle depot, has been arrested by German police. He had received letters from the German Police Commissioner at Aix, asking him to come to that place and confer with him regarding frontier service. He finally agreed to do so. While on his way to Aix he was roughly seized by German police and taken to Noveant, from which place he was sent to Metz.

The Metzer Zeitung says that Schnaebeles' arrest is due to his connection with anti-German agitations conducted by the Patriotic League; but the people of Pagny-sur-Moselle declare this to be entirely untrue, and say he had nothing to do with the agitation. The incident has thrown the inhabitants of Metz and Nancy into the wildest state of excitement.

A SENSATION AT PARIS.

PARIS, April 21.—The arrest of M. Schnaebeles was a profound sensation, and it is feared may lead to unfortunate results. Le Paris calls it "another provocation," and asks if Bismarck is seeking a casus belli. The Germans requested Schnaebeles to set up one of the posts which mark the frontier line. The commissary crossed the boundary and advanced a few yards on German soil when he was seized by the German police. The agents were disguised in gray blouses. He knocked the agents down and escaped back to French territory, but was again seized, handcuffed and sent to Metz, where he was placed in prison.

The French procurator at Nancy has gone to Pagny to inquire into the affair. Most of the Paris evening papers make no comment on this event. La Liberte says it is expedient to refrain from comment until Germany shall have explained the occurrence.

THE STOCK MARKET AFFECTED.

Rentes were unfavorably affected by the arrest of Schnaebeles. The market for 3 per cent. rentes for account became flat, and the quotation declined 44 centimes during the afternoon, closing at the lowest price.

RUSSIAN FINANCES.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.—Russia has issued a 4 per cent. internal loan amounting to 100,000,000 roubles. The government will accept bonds at their face value as security for the contractors employed on public works. The imposition of a passport tax has been temporarily postponed.

LONDON, April 21.—A sharp shock of earthquake has been experienced over the whole island of Jersey. The tremor proceeded from west to east. No damage was done.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL BILL.

BERLIN, April 21.—The debate on the Ecclesiastical Bill was begun in the Lower House of the Prussian Diet today.

BRITISH POLITICS.

Free Fight at a Meeting of the Liberal Ladies' Association.

LONDON, April 21.—[By Cable and Associated Press.]—At a meeting of the Ladies' Liberal Association, at Kensington last evening, at which several members of Parliament were present, a row arose on the Irish question. Finally the platform was stormed, and a free fight ensued, in which the furniture in the hall was smashed, and the pieces used as weapons. The police succeeded in restoring order after a hard struggle, making several arrests. Many persons were injured, including two members of the House of Commons. The ladies present, among whom was Mrs. Ashton Dilke, made their way to the sides of the hall, whence they witnessed the row.

REITERATES ITS CHARGES.

The Times has published a second series on "Parnellism and Crime," including a fac-simile of Parnell's letter and articles connected therewith, for distribution throughout the country.

THE BUDGET IN PARLIAMENT.

The budget was a complete surprise to the House of Commons. Many of its proposals, notably those relating to the national debt charges, will be vigorously opposed. It is maintained that Goschen has resorted to unsound measures of finance in order to present a budget that may save the Conservatives at the next general election. The Conservatives are much irritated at Lord Randolph Churchill's attitude.

IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

In the House of Lords today Earl Cadogan moved a second reading of the Land Bill. Baron Denman moved the rejection of the bill, which he said was likely to bury landlord and tenant in litigation.

Earl Spencer said he hoped that Lord Denman would not press a division on his motion. The land question must be settled before Ireland would become peaceful. Interference with rents was unavoidable. The action of courts justified interference on behalf of tenants to lower judicial rents, which were too high, in view of falling prices. He condemned the rate of remissions, which he said would lead to disputes and impose additional burdens upon districts now almost bankrupt. He also condemned the powers given to county courts in cases of bankruptcy claims.

Lord Ashbourne said that the bill, if passed, would prove a great check to evictions. The details of the bill, he said, could be easily amended in committee.

MAY REVEAL THE AUTHOR.

Sexton has received an anonymous letter which, it is thought, will lead to the identification of the author of the Parnell letter published in the Times.

Captured the Last Man.

TUCSON, April 21.—The Sheriff's posse captured the fourth member of the gang of horse-thieves yesterday, and one of the same party who robbed Wheaton at San Pedro on Monday, thirty miles from here. He made a desperate fight, but was shot from his horse, mortally wounded. The gang was the most desperate over in this section. They have killed a dozen men in Sonora, including Gov. Torres's brother. The pistol of Wheaton was found on the person of the man shot.

Philadelphia Wool Men Determined to Drive the California Product from Atlantic Markets—Representatives of the Coast Trying to Avert Threatened Disaster.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The following telegram has been received by the Interstate Commerce Commission:

"SAN JOSE, April 21.—The New Almaden is the largest quicksilver-producing mine in the United States. Its principal offices are in New York, where its products come into competition with Spanish quicksilver, shipped at low rates of freight from London. The present transcontinental rates shut us out of the New York market entirely, and will have, consequently, a disastrous effect on this industry.

"(Signed) J. B. RANDAL."

Several telegrams have been received from Pacific coast fruit interests setting forth the disasters threatened by the new transcontinental rates.

A NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—The fourth section of the Interstate Commerce Bill, that which refers to the long and short hauls, so far as it is likely to affect the Pacific coast industries, is beginning to attract the attention it deserves. The Morning Call in an editorial says:

"By the fourth section our American transcontinental roads are prohibited from making rates that will enable shippers by American routes to compete with shippers by the Canadian route. In requiring American roads to charge local rates over the entire route the Canadian Pacific is given a great advantage. It is a matter for regret that in this crisis in our affairs the Pacific coast has not a representative in the commission. The commission has suspended the fourth clause until it has time to study it in all its bearings. It may conclude by and by to revoke the suspension. It will certainly be urged to do so by parties who are interested in excluding California produce from eastern markets. Already we hear that the sugar refineries of New York and Philadelphia desire to be heard against any reduction of transcontinental freights on California sugar. It is hardly likely that a party who asks the commission to exclude our sugar from the market which it now enjoys, in order to make the article dearer to the Missouri River consumer for the benefit of the eastern refiner, will be listened to with patience. But the excellence of the doctrine of protection has been so strenuously urged of late that it would not be surprising if it were argued in some quarters that the East needs protection against western products, and it is possible that for a time the idea might commend itself to the commission. Herein lies the danger of the adoption of a purely selfish policy by the transcontinental lines. If they utilize the present general revolt against section 4 to fasten upon the traffic a schedule of freights higher than they could maintain before the law was passed, they will certainly provoke further and perhaps more effective legislation at the next session of Congress."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S PETITION.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Charles Tweed, of New York, addressed the Interstate Commission on behalf of the prayer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for a suspension of the fourth section of the Interstate Commerce Law. The Northern Pacific Company will file a like petition. This afternoon A. T. Britton addressed the commission on bhalf of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad.

HEARING PETITIONS AND PROTESTS.

C. H. Wicker, representing the Board of Trade and Merchants' Exchange of Chicago, telegraphed asking the commission to withhold its decision until an argument be submitted in favor of the supension of the long and short haul clause on the Pacific coast traffic, provided that rates from the great lakes and Mississippi Valley be made proportionately less than from the Atlantic seaboard, as has been the case in the past.

Telegrams signed by W. T. Garrett, president of the Manufacturers' Association of California, and a committee of the San Francisco merchants, were received, saying that memorials mailed contained potent arguments against the suspension of the fourth section of the act. The Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco telegraphed favoring the exception from the operation of section 4 of special cases requiring rapid transit.

George Gray, attorney of the Northern Pacific Railroad, addressed the commission. He said that after examination of the fourth section he has reached the conclusion that the railroads should not take it upon themselves to determine what constituted "similar circumstance and condition," and he filed a petition substantially similar in purport to those presented by the Southern Pacific.

J. E. Searles, of New York, representing the sugar refiners east, including the St. Louis refiners, entered a protest against the granting of the San Francisco refiners' petition.

Mr. Taft, representing the Clipper line of Sutton & Co., said that the railway companies were now engaged in trying to have the law suspended If they knew that the law would not be suspended they would be engaged in carrying out its provisions in a way to make them successful. He asked that the law be not suspended in the general way asked for, but that the roads be made to fix fair rates, and he would like the privilege of examining witnesses to show what would be fair rates. Further hearing upon the Pacific lines was then postponed till tomorrow.

AN OREGON OPINION.

PORTLAND (Or.), April 21.—The Oregonian says: "The demands from California upon the Interstate Commission for relief are almost hysterical. It is somewhat surprising that the commission, after having acted promptly in regard to the South, should be so slow to hear an appeal from the Pacific slope. It is plainer now than ever that the Pacific slope ought to have been give one of the members of the commission."

PHILADELPHIA WOOL MEN PROTEST.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Justice, Bateman & Co., wool commission merchants of Philadelphia, in a letter to the commission express the hope that section 4 will not be suspended as regards the transcontinental lines. The protests against the long and short haul, they say, came from parties who have heretof ore enjoyed the greatest benefits from cut rates and who have had unfair advantage. For instance, they continue, "last year the merchants of San Francisco had a rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds on wool, while dealers and growers located several hundreds of miles further east had to pay $3 to $4.50 per 100 pounds if that wool was shipped direct to the East. There is wool, now in Philadelphia, grown in Montana, which the railroads forced to be sent thence, via San Francisco, making a haul of 4000 miles, while if shipped direct it would have traveled 2000 miles. The object of the discrimination was to give San Francisco merchants an opportunity to exact toll before it reached its natural destination.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Something Rotten in the Consular Service in Morocco.

GIBRALTAR, April 21.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] It is reported here that two Englishmen, displaying the American flag, recently imprisoned a Hebrew merchant of Alcazar, Morocco, for debt, took him in chains to Tangiers, parading him through three towns on the way, the outrage being aggravated by the fact that it was inflicted during the period of the Passover. The principal Hebrews of Tangiers have joined in an appeal to the French, Portuguese and British consuls for assistance in an attempt to get all governments to unite in efforts to suppress the system of consular abuses under which these outrages are perpetrated.

SALISBURY'S OFFER.

LONDON, April 21.—The Times today says: "Salisbury's offer to the United States Government, looking to a settlement of the fisheries question, contained in his dispatch of March 24th, is generous and almost Quixotic. To do more," says the Times, "would be weakness, and we are slow to believe that America will refuse to take advantage of what will cost her nothing to accept."

GERMAN IMMIGRATION DECREASING.

BERLIN, April 21.—The official report upon emigration has been presented to the Reichstag. It shows that the number of emigrants from Germany who passed through Hamburg, Bremen and Stettin during the year 1886 was 67,000, or a decrease of 22,000 from the previous year, when 89,000 persons left the Empire. The report says, on the other hand, that emigration from Austria, Hungary, Russia, Sweden and Norway, through the same ports, in 1886, was largely in excess of that of 1885.

Who Got the Treasure.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Special Officer J. B. Hume, of Wells, Fargo & Co., has returned from New Mexico. He has been nearly a month investigating the loss of about $7400 in treasure. An Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé train, with $100,000 in treasure for the express company, was wrecked by a broken bridge near Las Vegas on the 4th ult., and the cars were destroyed by fire. Of the treasure a little over $92,000 was recovered. The investigation showed that the rest had been stolen. Capt. Hume was unable to secure sufficient facts to warrant arrests.

THE POPE AND DR. M'GLYNN.

LONDON, April 21.—A dispatch from Rome to the Chronicle says: "The Vatican is renewing its efforts to induce Rev. Dr. McGlynn, of New York, to come to Rome. The Pope's decision on the Knights of Labor question has displeased many of the reactionary cardinals, who have signed a remonstrance addressed to the Holy See, maintaining that the case ought to be reconsidered. The Pope has ordered the Catholic press to avoid discussion of the matter."

WASHINGTON.

A Reserve of the Las Vegas Land Grant Ordered—Railway Commissioners Take a Rest—Danenhower's Funeral.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Upon recommendation of the Surveyor of New Mexico, Commissioner Sparks, of the General Land Office, has ordered that the tract known as the Las Vegas grant, in New Mexico, be resurveyed. The Surveyor-General, in the report upon which the order of resurvey was made, says: 'The present survey embraces nearly half a million acres of land, and is manifestly indefensible. The papers show a grant for agricultural purposes of numerous specified allotments of land amounting to perhaps 20,000 acres, the particular areas of which several tracts can only be determined by a survey. The remainder of the land included in the boundaries specified was evidently intended for pasturage, and the grant provides that these lands and their waters shall be free to all, and it was not the custom of the Mexican government to grant, in fee, pasture land to an extent of nearly half a million acres, as claimed in this case. For these and other reasons the land should be resurveyed and a patent issued for the land actually granted for agricultural purposes, thus settling the vexed question of title, restoring to public domain and actual settlement a large body of land. Las Vegas, one of the important towns of the Territory of New Mexico, is located on this tract.

THEY TAKE A REST.

The Pacific Railway Commission today sent a number of letters to department and railroad officials and others, asking for information in regard to roads which have received aid from the Government. The Commissioners have found the subject of their investigation to be much involved and complicated, and their inquiries are framed with a view to affording a groundwork for intelligent examination of the Pacific Railroads' affairs. The questions will require some time before they can be answered, and the Commissioners will leave for their home tomorrow evening, and return to New York in a week or two.

Strike on the Southern Pacific.

TUCSON, April 21.—The freight conductors and brakemen on the Southern Pacific, between Yuma and El Paso, struck last night. Ten through freight trains were sidetracked here last night and today. The company retorts by ordering that seventeen hours constitute a day's work.

Mexican Officials Make Trouble for an American Vessel.

Horrible Tale of Lawlessness and Crime in Missouri—Confession by One of a Gang of Masked Marauders Now on Trial for Murder.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] An evening paper prints the following: "What bids fair to develop into a big gold-brick swindle came to light today at the United States assay office. Yesterday a well-known and wealthy gentleman of this city deposited four large bars, supposed to be gold, with the assayer, to be refined and made into standard gold bars. The gentleman said the bars were from California, and were estimated to be worth $10,000 each, or $40,000 for the four, and that an assay which he had made before showed the bars to be about 72 per cent. fine. The bars were received and receipted for in the usual form, and the gentleman departed in full confidence that he had $40,000 in gold in the hands of Uncle Sam. The suspicions of Graham, the receiver of deposits, were aroused by the light weight of the bars, their specific gravity being only about eighty-nine, whereas the specific gravity of gold is 193. Samples were taken from the four bars and assayed, when it was found that the bars were of copper, with a thin wash of gold on the outside. In short, the four bars turned out to be worth about $4 instead of $40,000. Up to noon today the gentleman had not called to ascertain the result of the assay. It is evident that a fraud has been perpetrated on him and that he is numbered among the victims of the gold-brick trick.

NEED A LESSON.

Illegal Action of Mexican Officials Toward an American Vessel.

TAMPA (Fla.), April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] News reached here of an incident which may involve this Government in a controversy with Mexico. Last month the Norwegian bark Brazaleva went ashore off Cozumel, Mexico, and the schooner Nellie Blanche sailed from Key West to render assistance and found that the bark's cargo had been taken ashore, vessel stripped and everything sold or confiscated by the Mexican authorities. The crew were held as prisoners, but on what ground could not be learned. A Mexican customs officer boarded the Blanche, took her papers ashore and returned with the information that the Blanche could clear from Cozumel for Key West, but must go to Progreso, 240 miles further south, to do so. This morning the vessel sailed into Key West. The captain said his crew would not sail the vessel to Progreso, and he brought her to Key West. As the ship has no foreign clearance from the Mexican authorities at the port of departure the Collector of Customs has seized the vessel and refused entry, pending instructions from the Secretary of the Treasury.

A HORRIBLE CONFESSION.

The Murderous Work of Masked Marauders in Missouri.

OZARK (Mo.), April 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The "Bald Knobbers" situation is becoming more serious each day. Yesterday Charley Graves, a prominent member of the midnight raiders, related the story of the raids he had attended, giving the names of the men who had accompanied him. He fixed the murder of George Edens on John Matthews. On the first assault on Edens's house George was shot down, but not killed. After ransacking the house the masked men retired, and George's mother was holding George's head while he lay on the floor, when a man appeared at the door and took deliberate aim at the wounded man and put a ball through his head. Graves says he met John Matthews coming from the house and heard him say he was mad because he had been wounded in the back of the head, and had returned to the house and finished the work on George Edens. Parsons Simons and Will Newton want to make confessions to save themselves, but the prosecution refuses to accept them, as they say now that they have enough testimony.

Bulldozed into a Strike.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Two hundred and fifty men refused to accede to the terms of Tiffany & Co., the largest silversmiths of this city, and today did not proceed to work. The firm posted notices that after 3 p.m. today no man belonging to the union would be recognized as a union man. Fifty men accepted the terms, and the others are expected to come to work. The whole of the silversmiths in this city have combined against the Knights, and, in view of the many severe blows given District Assembly No. 49 within the last few days, they are likely to succeed. Some of the silversmiths have worked for Tiffany thirty-five years, and, it is claimed, only went out through intimidation.

TEMPERANCE AND REAL ESTATE.

SANTA ANA, April 21.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Col. Woodford, the great temperance apostle, has just closed a two weeks' successful work in our midst. It is estimated that nearly 500 have donned the blue ribbon and joined the temperance ranks—many of whom were moderate tipplers, while some were immoderate. The most hopeful feature of the whole business is, that an organization has been effected of those who favor temperance, and the work is to go right on getting others to join the ranks of these reformers. On Sabbath evening a mass meeting was held by the Colonel in Spurgeon's Hall, filling it to its utmost capacity with those who are in hearty sympathy with the movement, and on Monday evening a most enthusiastic social was held at the same place to congratulate each other on the good results of the meetings and to bid Col. Woodford good-bye and godspeed in his good work of reform.

Real-esta e sales continue without much abatement. Capt. Jennings has just bought Robert McFadden's nice residence and five lots on Main street, paying, as was supposed, all they were worth, but within twenty-four hours after the purchase the Captain was offered an advance of $1000 for his purchase, but declined the offer. This is but a sample of the gradual rise of property in this town and vicinity. One gentleman from Indiana came here a few weeks since to visit his son, and since coming he has invested $25,000 in real estate. Others are doing likewise.

The brick work of the new hotel is completed and now the the carpenters and others concerned in the job are pushing the work on to completion. The new hotel at the depot is receiving the finishing touches.

The work of erecting a large planing mill for Griffith & Co. at the depot, in connection with their lumber yard, has commenced.

Mr. Rae, the bookseller, and Mr. Fidler, the druggist, have taken quarters in the Lacy block, and the wooden structures heretofore occupied by them are to be removed to give place for a brick structure, to be erected at once. The replacing of wooden buildings by brick blocks is rapidly going on.

Capt. Jennings and E. D. Cook left yesterday for Michigan, the former to visit kindred and old friends in Michigan, and then to extend his visit to York State to view the scenes of his boyhood on the shores of Lake Ontario; the latter goes to bring his family from Benton Harbor, Mich., to this place, and will make this his permanent home. Just before the Captain left his wife and daughter presented him with a beautiful gold watch, his little granddaughter making the presentation speech. NEWTON.

Duarte.

STILL MOVING ALONG.

DUARTE, April 20.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] After a week of rain and damp weather, which has been worth millions to the grateful ranchers, the foliage on the trees and herbage is looking magnificent. The Duarte is now appearing at its best, and the prospect for the heaviest crop of apples, peaches, apricots, prunes and all deciduous fruits is excellent. The orange crop for next season will also be the largest ever grown, judging from the exuberance of the bloom.

The shipping of the orange crop is proceeding rapidly. E. Watson, Charles Leffler and the Edwin T. Earl Company are keeping a large force at work picking, packing and hauling to the depot. From eight to ten fruit cars are on the side-track loading up all the time. This has been a profitable season, both for the grower and shipper.

The sale of about all the lots on the Bonnie Highland tract is announced. The hotel site is yet reserved, but will doubtless soon be taken up, as its location is a most desirable one. This tract will realize a profit for its purchasers, Messrs. Stimson & Higgins, of nearly $30,000 in a period of three or four weeks.

H. S. Daniels has purchased the half-interest in the original Duarte townsite from Mr. Roughton, of Los Angeles. The track is being graded and water will at once be laid on. This will be, no doubt, a rapidly-selling property, its situation, with the magnificent live-oaks scattered over it, make it one of the finest for beautiful villa lots on the foothills.

Mr. Maddock is getting his shingle up on his surveying office, now nearly ready for occupancy.

C. C. Davis has a force at work on the reservoir for his townsite about the depot. This supplies a l. f. w.

Hooker & Co., of Los Angeles, have the contract for supplying the iron pipe for the Highland View tract of Blankenhorn & Chippendale. The reservoir site is secured at a good elevation and will ensure the residents a fine distributing power.

Seaton Eddy has moved into the Depot Hotel, and visitors may recuperate the inner man without traveling away to our suburb of Monrovia.

The real-estate man is around numerously, and property is changing hands with rapidity at prices which make our old residents stare with astonishment and inquire anxiously "What next?" W. C.

San Bernardino.

BUILDING LIVELY—THE MOTOR ROAD.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 19.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The weather having been clear and pleasant for the past two days everything is brisk as usual. Building is going on rapidly, and the new hotel is being pushed rapidly to completion—much to the joy of all travelers and visitors for the present accommodation is inadequate to the demand.

The new belt road from San Bernardino to Colton, Lugonia and Old San Bernardino has been commenced, and when completed will be a very desirable road for use in the valley.

Social events have been quite numerous. Last Saturday night Miss Sarah McCann was surprised by a number of her young friends, and an enjoyable time was had.

Ye Olde Folk's Concerte at the opera-house last Monday was well attended, and C. L. Sears as "Ike" kept the audience in a roar by bothering "Mrs. Partington" at all times. Miss Buford sang a solo and was loudly encored, as was the Meyer Brothers, for music on violin and piano.

Next Monday night, the 25th inst., Baird's Minstrels will play at the opera-house, and lovers of the burt-cork artists will be out in full force.

A large number have been attending the Los Angeles Flower Festival, and all return well pleased.

The motor line is rapidly being pushed toward the Arrowhead Hot Springs, and the public will soon have a rapid and pleasant means of locomotion to that resort. RUSTLER.

Orange.

GENERAL NOTES.

ORANGE, April 21.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Grapevines are slow in starting this year.

Orange needs a good millinery store.

The contract for a large brick building on Glassell street was let yesterday.

The rain started a new growth of thrifty weeds, and ranchers are hard at work turning them under.

Railroad surveying parties are still running their lines, first on one side then an another, and it is impossible to guess with any certainty whether they will locate east or west of town.

Robert McPherson, who has been in Arizona nearly all spring, superintending the planting of his immense vineyard there, is now at home visiting with his family for a few days.

The McPherson store is getting a fine run of trade. Mr. Marsh, of that town, has sold out his livery business and will go into real-estate speculations.

The iron pipe for the Earlham water works arrived at the depot last week, and is now being hauled up to its proper destination.

Mr. Hoit's fine residence on the hill, one mile north of Earlham, is nearly completed and will be occupied by the family about the first week in May. A.

My Baby.

I know a baby, oh! so sweet!
Mine, all mine!
From the golden head to the dimpled feet,
Mine, all mine!
With passionate words and soft caress
My darling's face to my own I press,
With love and longing I can't express—
Mine, all mine!

Oh! the wonderful baby eyes
Seeking mine!
Knowing no shadow or surprise,
Wholly mine!
And oh! the delicate rosy ear,
I pray harsh words it may never hear—
No trouble or sorrow must come near
This baby of mine.

I fold the fluttering baby hands
Close in mine;
Soft fingers, stronger than iron bands,
Clasping mine.
Can I not keep the hands so sweet,
Can I not keep the tender feet,
That the world's rough path they may not meet
Dear babe of mine?

Oh! that this dainty thing should be
Mine, all mine!
That into its future I may not see,
Though wholly mine!
If only a mother's love might fold
As safe from harm as it does from cold,
No sad story would ever be told
My baby mine!

The dear little lips are so innocent,
Raised to mine!
The baby brow is so purely bent,
Dear baby mine!
Lip and brow I fervently kiss
Drinking the wine of a mother's bliss—
No earthly happiness like this
Can e'er be mine!

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great

FREE TESTS AT OFFICE.

This disease is treated upon a new principle, founded upon the fact that the disease is parasitic in its origin.

(PARASITES MAGNIFIED 480 TIMES.)

Our treatment consists in using remedies in the form of an ointment, which is sprayed through the head and throat, reaching every part that a spray can reach. The remedy remains in the head for some time, passes steadily into vapor, and reaches cells filled with mucous impossible to be reached by medicine in liquid or powdered form.

The treatment is painless, pleasant and effectual, curing fully 90 per cent of cases.

Price of treatment, $1 per box, six boxes for $5. Apparatus for spraying same, $5. Treatment used only once per day.

—ESSAY NUMBER ONE.—

CLAREMONT!

THE BEAUTIFUL!

Midway between San Bernardino and Los Angeles, on the Los Angeles and San Bernardino Railroad, the great Santa Fe route, four miles northeast from the town of Pomona, on the Southern Pacific Railroad, close to the mouth of the picturesque San Antonio Canyon, is located the leading townsite of all the new country developed next to the foothills of the lofty Sierra Madre Mountains.

The name CLAREMONT is indicative of clear mountain air, clear mountain water, clear from malaria, frost, fogs, and most of the ills that flesh is heir to. The site was specially chosen before any of the adjoining places were dreamed of. We had the entire line to select from, for the building of the railroad was then a secret, known only to a few. This exquisite place was chosen:

First—Because of the perfect altitude, which is 1200 feet above the sea.

Second—Because of the unlimited supply of artesian water, which is to be piped under pressure through every street in the town.

Third—Because of the unsurpassable scenery of valley and mountain.

Fourth—Because of the giant live-oaks and sycamores which adorn its grounds.

Fifth—Because of the great natural park that covers miles of territory to the east—oak trees that an English lord would give $10,000 per acre to possess.

Sixth—Because of the great extent of fertile country that surrounds it, covered with countless orchards of apricot, orange, peach, pear, apple and the almost endless list of fruit and vineyards, illustrating perfection in cultivation.

Seventh—Because of the "roses" that not only "Bloom in the spring, tra la," but bloom all the year round. Roses that are not equaled in the world.

The lands around the town are held at reasonable figures. Let the croaker say "the maximum in prices has been reached." I say that within five years $2000 per acre will be the price of all good fruit land in Southern California. In Southern France and Northern Italy not an acre can be bought for a less sum. You know, and every one knows, that while this is called the "Italy of America," we surpass the example in climate, soil and peoples.

CLAREMONT is simply a place for a HOME for people of refined taste; for people who would make money catering to their wants; for people who, on a moderate salary in Los Angeles, long for a quiet country home amid the most charming surroundings; for people from the East who want a place for a home that possesses all the natural attractions that makes life worth living for. To all these we say that the beautiful residence lots in CLAREMONT (only about one hour's ride from Los Angeles, on the new road, the people's line, the Santa Fé route) can be bought now for from $300 to $500. Next month they may be, and probably will be, $500 to $1000 each. Our hotel is on the way. Schools, churches, stores, and NO SALOONS, are already arranged for. Buy now. Make money or a home, as you choose. Come to Pomona via the Southern Pacific Railroad. Call at the Palomares Hotel, and you will be shown over the property free of charge. $85,000 worth already sold. No auction; no brass bands. We sell on our merits.

POMONA AND CLAREMONT, CAL.

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Thursday, April 21.

In the local markets today Butter and Cheese were lower. The price of Poultry advanced. The list at the Produce Exchange showed no other changes.

Following is the latest from the Chicago market for California Citrus Fruits:

CHICAGO, April 21.—With the exception of Florida, Messina and Catalina Oranges, California oranges are the only ones having any demand, there being very little of the others in the market. The California fruit is in fair supply. The choice has a good demand at fair prices, but common lots are slow. The following quotations are official: Bright Riversides, $3.50@4.00; San Bernardino, $3.50@4.25; Santa Ana, $3.00@3.25; Orange, $2.50@3.00; Los Angeles, $2.75@3.25; Navel Oranges, according to quality, $5.00@6.00; Duartes, $3.00@3.50; San Gabriels, $2.75@3.00; Blood Oranges, fancy, $5.00@7.00; culls, $2.00.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Money on call, easy, ranging from 4@6; last loan, 5; closed at 4 offered.

Prime mercantile paper, 5@6.

Sterling exchange quiet but firm at 4.80 for 60-day bills; 4.87½ for demand.

Government bonds were dull and steady.

Today's stock market presented a marked contrast to that of yesterday, being specially weak, and the improvement of last evening was entirely wiped out, and in many cases additional loss ensued. The opening was firm to strong, first prices generally showing advances over last evening of from ⅛ to ½ per cent. Under pressure for sales the market began to yield immediately and slowly sagged off with no special movement, except in New England and Consolidated Gas. After 1 p.m., however, the downward movement gathered force and Jersey Central and Union Pacific became prominent in the decline. In the last half-hour the decline was checked and the close was firm at a fraction better than the lowest figures.

This land is susceptible of a high state of cultivation; will produce from two to four crops per annum, owing to the variety planted, such as melons, potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, peas, beans, cabbages, etc.; $100 per acre net profit is but a fair estimate on each crop; this sum was realized per acre the present season from this winter vegetable land; winter tomatoes will yield much more than $100 per acre net, and melons and potatoes will average that amount; we plant tomatoes in August, potatoes in October, November and January, and then follow with melons, on the same ground, which will bring a return of $100 per acre net, without one drop of water; this soil will remain moist the entire year by proper cultivation; ten acres will make a man wealthy in a few years if properly cultivated; must be seen and investigated to be appreciated.

Part of the above tract has recently been sold to parties who will at once erect residences thereon.

FLOWER FESTIVAL.

THE NINTH NIGHT SHOWS SUSTAINED SUCCESS.

A Brilliant Display Enjoyed by Four Thousand People—The Kindergarten—The Festival to Continue Next Week—The Bicyclers Tonight.

The ninth day of the festival held its own wonderfully. The display was as fine as ever and the attendance extremely large. The afternoon was devoted to the children of the free kindergarten schools, and the sixty-two little ones who attended enjoyed themselves to their fullest capacity. The Sainsevain-street school sent thirty-one little tots under the charge of the teachers, Miss Nellie Mackey and Miss Ida Severns; and the Railroad-street school as many more, marshaled by their teachers, Miss Ella Clark and Miss Nellie Oliver. The children, who range in age from 2 to 6 years, were spandy-clean, neatly-dressed and topped off with cunning little caps of tissue paper. They made a very pretty sight as they marched upon the stage and went through their evolutions. Their programme was without special preparation, and of course under great disadvantages, but every spectator was interested and pleased. The two schools had never been brought together before, and the wee midgets were naturally confused by the huge building, the innumerable flowers and the large crowd—not to mention the big box of candy with which each was presented on entrance. They are used, also, to having a clearly-marked circle at school in the performance of their exercises, and were much at a loss to keep their places without it. The exercises consisted of "finger-songs and games," all of which are intended to teach some special lesson. The "trade-game" illustrated the different trades, the "game of the lizards" illustrated obedience, and "the worm" inculcated an important fact in natural history. At the conclusion of their short programme, which was—despite the disadvantages—very creditably rendered, the festival managers treated the little ones to icecream and cake. It will be long before the little ones forget their bright day at the Flower Festival.

A THOUGHTFUL GIVER.

The children of the orphan asylums were invited to be present Wednesday; and those of the Orphans' Home attended. Those of the Sisters' Orphan Asylum could not come on account of sickness in their ranks. John E. Plater, president of the Los Angeles County Bank, saw the little ones and generously ordered a half-pound box of candy given to each. That those who were unable to come might not be entirely desolate, he also sent a box apiece to the children of the Sisters' Asylum. Yesterday he had the kindergarten children similarly treated. The ladies of the candy booth put up a total of 278 half-pound boxes of fine candy at Mr. Plater's expense for as many poor children.

A BIG SCHEME.

It has been decided to run the festival at least three days into next week, and some gorgeous affairs are in preparation therefor. The Long Beach people will come up and build their floral lighthouse, which will be an attraction in itself. The Santa Fé will have its own line done from San Bernardino to Los Angeles, and N. C. Carter, of Sierra Madre, is preparing to have a grand celebration of a consummation so important to Los Angeles. He will bring in a mammoth excursion on the first train over the new road, starting from Riverside and picking up recruits at every station along the road. The excursion will be met here with bands and booming cannon, and fireworks will be sent off in front of the Pavilion. It will be an enormous affair.

LAST NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

The beautiful procession was repeated last night, and was greatly enjoyed by the 4000 people present. The audience never seems to tire of this charming spectacle. It was followed by some really brilliant tableaux. The musical programme by the Seventh Infantry Band was as follows:

March, "Jolly Coppersmith"—(C. Peters).
Overture, "Wm. Tell"—(Rossini).
Schottische, "My Blackeyed Mac"—(J. O. Casey).
Waltz, "Marabella"—(Petts).
Spanish March, "La Paloma"—(D. S. Ferrazzi).
Overture, "Fair Dove, Oh Fond Dove—(Schleperrell).
Waltz, "Philomela"—Petts).
Song, "In the Gloaming"—E. C. Walston).
Medley Overture, "Sitting on the Golden Fence"—(H. Frendiville).
"Home, Sweet Home."

THE RECEIPTS.

The receipts of the various departments Wednesday and Wednesday evening were: Ice cream booth, $191; dining-room, $36.10; candy booth, $75.40; lemonade booth, $32; soda booth, $39.80; register, $15; San Gabriel booth, $10.85; rainbow booth, $11; hat and cloakroom, $11.50; bulbous booth, $8.70; fan booth, $9; Mrs. Straus, $1.85; donations, $7.50; rose sale, $3.75; a "Friend," $10; first line of register, $80; receipts at the door, $739; total, $1282.46.

THE REGISTER.

The register is steadily adding to its number of names. The plan of voting for the top line of the first page of the register was abandoned as soon as known of by Mrs. Widney and Mrs. Stevens. Voting was started by a few gentlemen on the spur of the moment, but the lady aids at the booth all agreed with Mrs. Widney and Mrs. Stevens that it had better be stopped. Mrs. Ferguson, mother of Mr. McClure, of Vernon, born in 1800, signed her own name to the register without the use of glasses.

THE CHILDREN'S MITE.

Mrs. Widney received the following quaint little epistle, which we copy verbatim et literatim:

EAST LOS ANGELES, April 16.—To the big President of the big Flower Show: My folks wouldn't let me go to your flower show in the evening, so we thought we would have a flower show of our own.

We only charged 3 cents admition, because ours wasn't so big as yours. We did not make very much, but will send it over to help you. GERTRUDE HALL.
STELLA WHITE.
ANNIE JACOBUS.

The little sum was 80 cents, in dimes, nickels and cents, which was most willingly put with the big sum, and is hereby gratefully acknowledged.

THE FAN BOOTH.

May Rollin sent to the fan booth a choice pink camelia. Mrs. Barclay brought in a fine, very singular-looking fuchsia, one growing from the petal of another. The rose sales continue at this booth. The fan has now a white stripe, a delicate improvement upon the red and yellow stripes. A shelf is added to the sales table, which gives more available space.

FESTIVAL NOTES.

Minor Matters Picked Up All Around the Pavilion.

The bicyclers will give a grand parade drill and exhibition tonight, which will in itself draw an immense crowd. The club has some admirable riders, and a fine display of skill may be looked for.

The public schools booth has some very handsome floral designs.

Several of the children who were to take part in the tableau and grand march last night did not arrive in time. The ladies are anxious to have them at the hall by 7 o'clock.

The Misses Dodsworth will take charge of the register next week. Changes will be made in other booths when the ladies are tired out.

The display of fireworks in front of the Pavilion next week, when the excursion train over the Santa Fé road comes in, will be something grand.

The frame for the Long Beach floral lighthouse is being made. The lighthouse will be located near the center of the hall, and will be a grand sight.

The lily tableau this evening will be something different from any tableau yet presented. There will be twenty "lilies," chosen from the best singers in Los Angeles. After the first tableau they will sing "Consider the Lilies," and the second tableau will represent the "Mortal Lily."

At every inquiry as to whether the festival will close this week one feels inclined to say it ought not to close at all. The interest of the public seems just as lively as ever, and the spirit of the ladies quite as earnest. The receipts come in briskly. Flowers did not come in quite such profusion yesterday. Today and tomorrow all kinds will be gladly received, that the week may end as well as it began. Some of the ladies who have served so well at the ice cream booth have been relieved for a time by Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Dr. Peebles, Dr. Dorothea Lummis and Miss Lazer.

Mrs. William Heaver, of Boyle Heights, solicited and brought in twenty cakes for the ice cream booth. Mrs. Prager also reports five gallons of ice cream and a large cake from Mr. Ebinger; a handsome pyramid cake and a prettily-ornamented sheet of cake, from Mr. Meek, corner Fort street and Third. Mr. Koster presented a large cake. Mrs. Newmark, two round cakes and one sheet of cake.

Mrs. Sanderson gave supplies for the dining-room. Miller Bros., a large roast of beef.

A few lines should be given to the bulbous booth, the attractions of which are innumerable. A beautiful deep purple salpiglossis, fine narcissus and Spanish iris, grown by Hayes Rice, and several curious blossoms, not from bulbs, deserve notice. The pyrethrum, from which the valuable insect powder is made—in itself very pretty, belonging to the chrysanthemums—lychnis chalcedonica, some lovely scarlet flax, and gold alyssum, more of the pink peonies, which sell at 25 cents each, and are worn as bonnet decorations, lasting two days, if put in water at night, the odd clianthus and others.

A great run will be made on marigolds on Friday. All having the brilliant blossoms in their gardens will confer a great favor by bringing or sending them to the hall on Friday as early as possible.

The soda fountain, since its removal to the forward part of the hall, has done a flourishing business, reporting $40 to $50 proceeds. The cream did not suit the public taste and is no longer served with the soda.

The potted-plant booth has a bunch of banana blossoms, most interesting to strangers, and the deepest red canna blossoms. The spaces on the shelves here show that plants are selling well.

The California flora and novelty booth received fine additions to the collections of sea-moss yesterday from Santa Ana. A pretty cross of immortelles, from N. C. Carter, of Sierre Madre, has the fragrance of the fields in it. A cluster of sweet white clover stands alone. Placed here for sale are very fine Mexican opals, white and red, presented to Mrs. Widney by J. B. Menasco.

Mrs. Hollenbeck sent in a bunch of the curious red blossom, commonly known as bottlebrush; also fresh ferns and a large, perfect japonica.

The special rose booth has a spray of fine buds of the Homer rose. This rose never looks so well as in the bud. A vase of fascinating Glazenwood buds, and Madame Lauren, a miniature toy rose.

One beautiful flower-piece brought yesterday was made by Ralph Toberman of the choicest roses, with a line of mignonette, and another line of heliotrope on the outer edges.

Mrs. J. R. Toberman and Mrs. W. W. Parlin have redressed the shield in a most truly effective manner.

Miss M. M. Fette, the obliging recording secretary, has recovered, and is again on duty at the office.

The young ladies of the Los Angeles College yesterday fitted up their beautiful booth—an umbrella of marigolds in an enclosure framed in fan-palms and olive branches. They will have on sale there today a special edition of the Olive Leaf, their very creditable college paper, devoted to the festival.

Chico Flower Festival.

CHICO, April 21.—This is the opening night of the Chico Flower Festival. The large Armory Hall is now like a grand fairy bower. Designs of all descriptions have arrived here from friends abroad. Chico makes a magnificent display this year with her great variety of choice flowers, and even wild flowers are represented in a variety of pieces.

Three Men Murdered by Indians.

CHICAGO, April 21.—A Times Vernon (Tex.) special says: "News has just reached here that a band of Kiowa and Comanche Indians killed W. A. Strinson and two of his men yesterday, near his ranch, in Tom Green county. It is feared that a general outbreak is imminent."

The Newhall Extension.

SANTA BARBARA, April 21.—Five hundred graders on the Southern Pacific's Newhall extension camped at Ortega Hill, five miles from this city, today, and are at work blasting and grading. The company expects to have trains running to Santa Barbara within ninety days.

A Sickening Sight.

WACO (Tex.), April 21.—The rains in Western Texas have filled the channel of the Brazos River and have brought with the current a mass of polluted cattle carcasses that offset the advantages of the rain and give promise of disease. The carcasses are evidently from the alkali country, as they are entirely devoid of hair.

Killed by Cowboys.

ALBUQUERQUE, April 21.—Two cowboys named Finnesy and Ensley, while intoxicated at the small cattle town of Seven Rivers, picked a quarrel with D. H. Burdette, a well-known ranchman, and killed him. They then escaped. A Sheriff's posse is after them.

A Rise in Coffee.

NEW YORK, April 21.—There was much excitement and active trading on the Coffee Exchange today. Coffee jumped up fifty points. The cause of the sudden rise was not made known.

Fresno's Costly Hotel.

FRESNO, April 21.—Plans for the hotel Vendome, projected by George W. Meade & Co., of San Francisco, were received here today. The hotel is to front 250 feet on J street and 150 on Tulare, and be three stories high. The estimated cost is $300,000.

Burbank.

The sales in the town of Burbank have been something wonderful, never having been advertised to speak of, and yet nearly $300,000 worth of property has been sold in the past three weeks. And yet it is not to be wondered at, as every one that has seen Burbank is captivated with its beauty, quality of soil, nearness of location to Los Angeles, and whose future prospects are unsurpassed by any suburban town in the country.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. M. HILTON WILLIAMS,

No. 275 North Main Street,

LOS ANGELES.

With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Over 75,000 cases treated during the past 20 years, for some form of head, throat or lung trouble.

The following is a sample of hundreds of flattering testimonials given:

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Sept. 24, 1886.

DR. M. HILTON WILLIAMS:

DEAR SIR—I have been contemplating for some time past making a statement of my case and the benefit I have derived from your treatment, remembering how glad I would have been could I have seen something of the kind from a person in the city to whom I could have referred, when I first came to Los Angeles from my home in New York State.

I had been suffering for several years with what various physicians in the East pronounced "chronic ulcerated laryngitis." I spent considerable time at the Clifton Sanitarium, and employed the best medical skill I could find, all without any permanent benefit, and as a last resort our family physician recommended Los Angeles. For a time I improved, and then I began to go backward and all my former symptoms returned.

Through a medical friend I was induced to try your treatment, which I did August 29, 1884. I became very much discouraged at times, but persevered, as I felt almost desperate and knew of nothing else to turn to. My throat trouble being aggravated by a serious stomach difficulty, made it very obstinate to deal with, but at last, after persevering for a time with your remedies, I consider I am permanently cured. If this will be of any value to you, you are at perfect liberty to use it; also to refer any one to my mother, my husband or myself. Very truly yours,

MRS. J. D. WILEY,
821 Olive st., Los Angeles, Cal.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 17, 1886.

To the many testimonials won by Dr. Williams it gives me pleasure to add my own to the list so highly in his favor. For nearly two years I had been suffering from throat and lung trouble, brought on by catarrh. Had tried many remedies in the meantime, but found only temporary relief. After two months treatment, prescribed by Dr. Williams, my cough left me altogether, and I now have no pain in my throat or lungs as formerly. I cannot speak too highly of the benefits I have received, and shall ever be grateful to one who is worthy of the highest recommendation.

MISS MINNIE H. HARRIS,
Riverside, Cal.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Nov. 20, 1886.

MISS CLARA FOOSHEE, who lives near the Temple-street reservoir, says: "When I began treatment with Dr. M. Hilton Williams, June 14, 1884, the doctors said I was in the second stage of consumption. They also told my relatives that I could not live long. I was very bad at that time, coughing large quantities of pus from my lung, where the cavity existed. As soon as I began treatment with Dr. Williams I began to improve, and in a few months I entirely recovered my health, which has continued permanent in every particular, although it is now over two years since I was treated by him.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharynx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me had better call at my office for consultation and examination, but, if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address

HOME-LIFE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

What He Wears and Where He Wears It—Dining Out on the Way to a Drawing-room—American Exhibition.

[Correspondence of the Kansas City Journal.]

LONDON, March 26.—The advice I gave in a recent letter, "Don't be presented at court," is perhaps an excuse for me to tell you some stories about the scenes outside the palace, last week, on the occasion of a drawing-room.

The day was bitterly cold, and a northeast wind searched for one's bones beneath the warmest clothing, and found them, too; yet here was a long line of carriages moving slowly some times, at others not moving at all, filled with ladies who were going to be presented. The regulation three feathers makes head-wraps an impossibility, and the severe rules about decollete dresses are admirably adapted to the development of colds, bronchitis and the like. With but scanty wraps to cover their bare necks and arms, for heavy ones would crush their wondrous finery, the whole of the long line of carriages sat and shivered and shook in the biting cold. They tried to warm their noses by burying them in their bouquets, the very flowers in which had the look of being frost-bitten, and this must have been cold comfort. Their only consolation in most cases was a foot-warmer, which is a large, flat tin box, which is filled before starting out with boiling water. They have them on all the railways here, and they are all right at first, but when the water grows cold, as it is bound to do soon, they are worse than nothing at all. As this is the only provision made for warming railway carriages here, you may be sure a six hours' journey on a frosty day or night is anything but comfortable. I went to Scotland recently and was nearly frozen to death. However, this is a digression, though, by the way of explanation as well. The sidewalks were lined with a crowd of the lower classes, who made comments, criticisms and jests with more candor and humor than politeness as they walked along and peered into the carriage windows at the snuffy old dowagers and the pretty girls within. One moldy brougham contained a little dried-up old woman—she was probably a countess, or something of the kind—who sat and scowled at the crowd on the sidewalks with dark looks as they grinned at the spectacle she made, crouching in one corner and shivering under her wraps, which were bundled around her until only the lowering eyes and the three funny little nodding plumes were visible. Presently a small stream of water began trickling through the floor of the brougham, which they took no pains to conceal. As time wore on the stream increased in volume, and the laughter in the same ratio. Then the old lady gave the check-rain a spiteful jerk, and the decrepit footman climbed down, opened the door and discovered that the stopper of the foot-warmer with which our Milady was vainly trying to warm her toes had come unscrewed and the contents were filtering slowly into the frozen road. Some of the old-timers, however, had evidently learned wisdom by experience. In many carriages there was to be seen a great munching of sandwiches and imbibing of sherry. One old gentleman in a general's uniform, half-buried in the draperies of his portly wife and two buxom daughters, created amusement by diving down into the sea of tulle around him, and with a fork spearing some savory morsels, which were not recognizable from the depths, and solemnly feeding them to his flock. The receptacle of his delicacy, whatever it was, was presumably hidden under the seat, but its contents seemed to be very acceptable. Two very severe-looking dowagers, however, took the "biscuit," and something else as well. "Jeames," the footman on the box, produced a spirit lamp, lit it on the box and warmed a liquid compound (I judged from the aroma it was beef tea and sherry), and when finished, handed it in the carriage window smoking hot, and followed by a box of biscuits—that is English, you know, for crackers. Truly, going to drawing-room is a rare treat.

You may think I write much about royalty—well, in Lent any topic is like any port in a storm, and until after Easter interesting morsels will be few and far between.

The Prince of Wales has been presented with a petition, not by the American exhibition, as some malicious person cabled to America, but by the council of welcome, which is composed exclusively of Englishmen, asking him to become the honorary president of the council. There were over 600 signatures to the petition, and all noblemen and gentlemen. They were headed by Cardinal Manning and fifty peers of the realm, nearly 200 lords by courtesy, baronets and knights, mayors of cities, members of Parliament, presidents of chambers of commerce, and the leading scientific societies, etc., etc. And all of these representative men expressed their hearty desire to give practical expression to their good will and kindly, hospitable feelings for all Americans who visit the mother country. The Prince is the most genial and popular man in Europe, and he has always shown heretofore in his treatment of Americans that he has not forgotten his visit to our country in 1860. The Prince returns from Berlin today, where he has been to visit the Emperor of Germany, and takes up his quarters at Marlborough house for the season.

At Sandringham the Prince breakfasts with his wife and daughters, but at Marlborough house his habits are less regular, and as often as not his first meal consists of sardine on toast, with a cup of coffee, or on occasion—tell it not in Gath—a brandy and soda. This "small and early" is partaken of in the airiest of costumes before the dressing-room fire, and during its progress his Royal Highness sorts and reads his letters. Half the arrangements for the Colinderies were made or sanctioned in that cosy little room, looking out on the Mall, between the nibbles and sips of the Prince's breakfast. The next business—always an important item with the Prince of Wales—is the choice of the suit of clothes he means to wear, and the selection is to him a matter of much care. It depends, of course, on the programme for the day. If his diary tells him that he has to open a hospital or attend a "heavy" meeting of learned professors, or run down to Windsor to see "mamma," as he still calls her most gracious Majesty, the black frock coat with the silk facings, with a pair of quiet unmentionables to follow, is the order given to his trusty valet. Should Sandown, or a little luncheon "somewhere" with Charley Beresford, be down in the day's bill of fare, the latest thing in wonderful chessboard checks is called for, but whatever suit is offered to him the Prince is sure to reject it if it has been worn five times before. His Royal Highness never wears a pair of trousers more than six times. The cast-offs become the property of his man, who, it may be judged, has an enviable post.

As soon as he is arrayed in purple and fine linen, the Prince has Sir Francis Knollys in, and over the first cigar of the day instructs him as to the proper treatment of the pile of opened letters. Then he makes his way to his wife's morning room, where he is sure to find the Princess in the daintiest of morning toilets hard at work on "crewels," with two of her daughters making wonderful garments for the Sandringham poor, while the third little maid is reading aloud, either from the Times or Morning Post. The papers and the crewel work are both laid aside when the Prince enters, and when his youngest daughter has brought him the weight-carryingest chair in the room, half an hour's chat follows.

During the season this is all the home life the Marlborough house people have together. Unless he has a dinner party at home or some function to attend which entails the presence of his wife and daughters, the Prince sees them no more till next morning. He may look in during the latter hours of the afternoon to get into evening dress, but the 5 o'clock tea which he honors at Sandringham by accounting for four cups of strong Bohea and innumerable sandwiches, is honored in the breach at Marlborough house. At the witching hour when suburban dames are busy with their neighbors' character over the teapot, Albert Edward is fulfilling his mission in the park or finishing his lunch somewhere, or, on rare occasions, doing penance in the House of Lords.

The American exhibition is now on the home-stretch; everybody is working hard, but all the officers wear smiling faces, that come from confidence in the secured success of the exhibition. The weather has improved, and bright sunshine and westerly winds give opportunities for pushing on the work which the bad weather has denied them a good deal lately.

The manager of Buffalo Bill's "Wild West," Maj. John M. Burke, arrived on Monday. He was delighted with the arrangements made for their reception, and could hardly realize that the noble amphitheater and the camp on the hillside had risen in the short four months that he had been absent. The gardens are beginning to put on their spring attire, and the main building is receiving the finishing touches—and a remarkably attractive, light and airy structure it is. The experiment of using railroad rails is even more successful than was looked for, and the results are delightful to the eye. London is waking up to the fact that the "Yankeries is really going to lick creation." The London Evening Echo stated editorially that, "to quote the late Henry Ward Beecher's remarks about London, the exhibition 'is some punkins, I tell you.'" Another surprise on Monday was the announcement that Mr. Frederick C. Penfield, the United States Consul-General at London, and an old journalist, has resigned his consular appointment and joined the executive staff of the exhibition. The whole staff move into their quarters in the buildings on Monday, and the city offices will be closed. The exhibits are beginning to arrive rapidly, and one ship due here in about ten days or so will have nearly half her cargo consigned to the American exhibition.

To My Wife.

Lucy, don't you hear the voices, gentle voices in the air;
Like the waving of a pinion, like the panting of a prayer,
Like a song of singers dead,
Like a dream of beauty fled,
When we cannot quite remember what the angel vision said?

Oh, the voices of the yesterdays! Time's melancholy choir,
With the twilight singing minor and the dawning singing air,
With the clouds of glory round,
And their brows with garlands bound,
And a million golden minutes strewn like grain upon the ground.

Ah, they must be up the river, and it cannot be a dream,
For the wind is blowing soft, my love, is blowing down the stream,
And is wafting to your ears
What your listening spirit hears,
Till the past grows dim and dimmer through the mist of many years.

And a little form in white seems to rise beyond the rain,
And a little hand to beckon and a little voice complain.
To your heart a moment pressed,
Then away to be a guest,
And to sing among the angels in the gardens of the blest.

For the little infant spirit that a brighter angel bore,
A darker angel challenged at the threshold of the door,
And he bade it back again,
As returns the morning rain,
To the heaven o'er the mountain and the glory o'er the main.

In his arms the angel clasped her, and as he turned and smiled,
He crowned you there, the mother of a sinless angel child.
Ah, the beauty that she wore
Borne so swiftly on before,
Just to learn the heaven for "welcome" to that bright and blessed shore!

But Lucy, 'twill be by and by, when Junes have followed June,
And many a sad December night has played a solemn tune;
When the snow upon your hair
Forgets to melt and lingers there,
And form so frail and faded trembles in the old arm-chair.

Then here's my hand, my dearest, we'll travel on together,
In days both clear and cloudy, in rude and rainy weather,
Till the winter at the last
Shall the shadows eastward cast,
And our lives and loves forever shall be blended with the past.

LORDSBURG!

THE COMING CITY!

—OF—

POMONA VALLEY.

Location the Most Beautiful in Southern California.

Pure Piped Mountain Water Furnished at Once.

THE PIPES NOW BEING LAID.

Surface Water 8 to 20 ft.--Very Soft and Pure.

The Atchison Railroad Now Building Through the Town, and the Foothill Line of the Southern Pacific Surveyed Half a Mile Further North—School Buildings and Churches to be Erected at Once—A Portion of the Purchase Money Devoted to School and Church Purposes—A Fine View of the San Gabriel Valley to the West and the Santa Ana Valley to the East.

THREE SALIENT POINTS:

No. 1—Artesian water is found under 200 acres of the townsite, at a depth of from 75 to 180 feet.

No. 2—Pure, cold, SOFT water is found under the whole tract at from 8 to 35 feet deep.

No. 3—Mountain water is brought in from the celebrated Indian Hill artesian wells in iron pipes under 100-foot pressure.

Among the coming towns of Southern California, none are laid out with a view to future growth and prosperity, on a grander scale, or in a more beautiful locality than LORDSBURG, Los Angeles county.

LORDSBURG is located on the Atchison system of railroads—the Los Angeles and San Bernardino line—four miles northwest of Pomona, in a most beautiful portion of the valley, which is as level as a floor over the entire tract, which is a mile square. Through trains will run over this road probably by the 20th of April. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company are now surveying a line from Ramona (Short's Station), past the Raymond Hotel and thence along the foothills above the Atchison road to San Bernardino, and probably thence to connect with the main line after going through the East San Bernardino Valley. Thus LORDSBURG will at once have one line of railroad, and within a few months it will have a second.

No lots will be sold at LORDSBURG until the day of sale, which will be announced hereafter. From this rule there will positively be no deviation. The price of lots will be scheduled at popular prices, and the lots will be sold at these prices. The choice of location will be sold at auction and the money paid for this choice will go into an improvement fund, which will be devoted to the building of schoolhouses, churches and other public improvements, the details of which will be more definitely announced hereafter.

On the day of sale, which will be duly and extensively advertised, there will be a grand excursion from Los Angeles, and another from Riverside and San Bernardino, over the new line of road, at prices as low as can be had.

It is the intention of the proprietors of this tract to make the coming sale of lots at LORDSBURG the crowning act of the season in real-estate operations, and to this end a crowd of people will be gathered on the day of sale. But ample accommodations will be provided for their comfort, so that every one will enjoy the May-day picnic.

The best business men of Los Angeles look upon LORDSBURG as the coming town of the interior, and are making arrangements to invest accordingly. A large number of business men stand ready to commence active building operations immediately after the sale, with a view to occupying the stores built. They would commence at once but for the rigid rule that no lots will be sold in advance of the hereafter-to-be-advertised day. The town is now being platted and surveyed, and in a few days more particulars of the sale will be publicly announced.

California Remedies of Sarsfield Remedies Co.

Sarsfield's Remedy for the Blood and Constipation.

Sarsfield's Remedy for Diphtheria and Pneumonia.

Sarsfield's Chronic Ulcer Salve.

These remedies are well known in Central and Northern California, and are now introduced in the southern counties. The MAKING OF CERTIFICATES has related so largely to fraud that the public has naturally grown suspicious of them. But those here referred to are by such prominent citizens, of such irreproachable character, and the cures are so well known, and the witnesses are so easy to reach, that we make the references without any hesitation:

MRS. H. C. GOODRIDGE, 28 Hawthorne street, San Francisco, 9 years a sufferer from chronic ulcers, and her case abandoned by physicians, permanently cured. Certified to by Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, the well-known philanthropist, and president of the Kindergarten Association, San Francisco.

MRS. M. R. ADAMS, formerly of Sacramento, completely cured at the residence of her brother, Benjamin Welch, master car-builder of the Southern Pacific Company, Sacramento, of running sore on the arm of 8 years' standing, and that had nearly sapped her life.

W. S. DOAN, noted inventor of the steam wagon, Sacramento, 33 years of fever sores, cured in 40 days. Certified to by William Guttenberger, ex-City Trustee, Sacramento; Alex. Neilson, John Driscoll and H. G. F. Root, proprietor of the Union Foundry, and others.

JAMES MCCORMICK, vice-president Bank of Redding Shasta county, 3 years' suffering from worst character of rectal ulcer, permanently cured 3½ months.

W. A. DEAN, brother-in-law of M. H. de Young, of the San Francisco Chronicle, cured of aggravating piles and fistula in five weeks.

REV. J. T. HUFF, Turner Station, Or. (refers to Rev. Dr. Frost, Sacramento), cured of BLOOD POISONING of many years by use of the BLOOD REMEDY and SALVE. His letter is a remarkably warm indorsement.

We are also permitted to refer to Hon. Ira G. Hoitt, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Sacramento; L. A. Upson, Sacramento; A. D. Carvill, of Carvill Manufacturing Company, San Francisco; Judge George K. Williams, Placerville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lux (Lux & Miller), San Francisco; C. B. Corwin, 925 Market street, San Francisco, and a host of others as well known.

These cures have been made by the use of the BLOOD REMEDY and ULCER SALVE, which are HOUSEHOLD REMEDIES, etc., effective in impurities of the BLOOD and diseases of the LIVER and KIDNEYS, CHRONIC CONSTIPATION, PILES, FISTULAS etc.

Manufactured and for sale by the

SARSFIELD REMEDIES COMPANY,

115 EDDY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, and by all reputable druggists. Price, $1 per bottle for the Blood Remedy, and $1 and 50c. per box for the Salve, according to size.

[Washington Post.]

MR. CLEVELAND LOOKS WELL.

The condition of Mr. Cleveland's health was the prevailing topic of conversation among the groups of people who stood in the east room at the White House yesterday afternoon and waited for the President to come down stairs. When at last he walked through the folding-doors, one of the gentlemen voiced the general sentiment of the crowd when he said:

"Well, he don't look very much like a sick man. Look at his bright, clear eye and his healthy complexion. He never looked better in his life. He looks 50 per cent. better than he did last year."

Among the crowd was a remarkably handsome lady who arrived early, and preëmpted a chair near where the President was to stand. She was an interested spectator of all that was going on about her until the reception was fairly under way, when she got up, and walking over to one of the mirrors at the north end of the room, slowly surveyed herself in the glass. A look of dissatisfaction passed over her features, and she hesitated a moment and looked around at the crowd. All eyes were turned upon the President, and, after a moment of hesitancy, she turned resolutely to the glass, took off her hat and laid it on the marble ledge. Then she deftly removed her hair-pins and placed them by her hat. She rearranged the strands of the Grecian coil of dark-brown hair on the top of her head, quickly slipped in the hair-pins, first on this side and then on that, replaced her jaunty hat, and, after a final glance of satisfaction, walked up to the President with the air of one who is sure of making an impression, shook hands and passed on with a smile of entire satisfaction with herself and all mankind, including the President.

GAY OLD HANNIBAL HAMLIN.

From the Portland Press.

Hannibal Hamlin is not a man of wealth. No boodle has ever stuck to his hands. He lives plainly, unostentatiously. On every public occasion on which he appears he is plainly the favorite, if cheers and hearty greetings mean anything. He is seen in the streets of Bangor on the coldest days of winter in his clawhammer coat, without the unnecessary adjunct of an overcoat. He walks miles at a stretch with the alacricity of a boy, just for a "constitutional." He is found in the huts of the poor and humble smoking an old T. D. pipe in company with the head of the household. He knows everybody and everybody knows him. On the load of the lumberman he is often seen mounted, chatting with the driver, who is so proud of his companionship that he will talk about it for years afterward. He never forgets a face and rarely a name, and generally can tell you more of your family history than you know yourself.

His chief relaxation is fishing. He employes the old-fashioned angle-worm for bait, and discards all the new-fangled appliances for capturing the finny tribe. He is execcdingly gay in the ballroom. At the legislative reunion last week he participated in every dance down on the order, and then went home in the morning with the prettiest girl on the floor.

NATURALLY THE ADJUTANT STUCK TO THE MAJOR.

[From the Washington Post.]

"When Maj. Polk arrived at his headquarters at Mexico he knew nothing whatever of military matters," said Gen. Viele, recently. "He was ordered to take command of the regiment of which I was adjutant. Before doing so he got a friend to write out all the orders he would have to give. When he appeared on the scene he called out to the orderly to send the adjutant to him. 'Here are my orders,' said Polk, handing them over to me. 'Have them published.' They were published accordingly.

"The next day Maj. Polk was ordered to form a squadron. He said to me: 'My spur is off; I wish to put it on. Give the order to put the squadron in motion.' I did so. 'Continue to give orders, sir!' shouted the Major. The next day he began to read up on military tactics. He read the first page and took a drink. Then he read the second page and took another drink. Finally he threw down the book and exclaimed:

"'Adjutant Viele, I don't know a d—— thing about it. My brother is President of the United States. You stick by me and tell me what to do and I'll see that you get quick promotion.'

"I stuck to the brother of the President."

WINDOM'S EARNESTNESS.

The mushroom candidacy of ex-Senator Windom for the chairmanship of the Interstate Commission died as quickly as it began. His friends are wondering what Windom will undertake next. His Topolobampo Railroad has received a quietus, and, with the death of Capt. Eads, his services for the Tehuantepec Ship Railway will come to an end. Mr. Windom's ruling passion is to seize time and everything else by the forelock. It will not be long before he will reach out after some new prize. When he was nominated for the Presidency by his State, in 1880, his previous way of accomplishing results captured the State Convention before the Blaine men knew what was going on. Bill King, the old postmaster of the House, and Gov. Davis, now Senator, were Blaine's managers, and thought they had things all their own way. When Windom had played his cards and secured a pledged delegation, King and Davis went out behind the opera-house, where the convention was held, and looked each other in the eye.

"Bill," said Davis, "is Windom in earnest? He hasn't got a ghost's shadow of a chance of getting the nomination."

"In earnest!" screamed King back. "In earnest! Why, he's already engaged in writing his second inaugural."

STRATEGY BY COL. WINTERSMITH.

Col. Dick Wintersmith was trying to write a letter in a room at Washington where Dan Voorhees, Beverly Tucker and two or three others were sitting. These three gentlemen formed a conspiracy to worry him and prevent his writing. Every time he would put pen to paper one or the other would ask him a question. At last old Judge Kelly came in and the Colonel greeted him very cordially.

"Judge," said the Colonel, "I wish you would sit down and tell us about your trip to Europe."

"Did I never tell you about my life in Europe?" said the Judge, with some surprise.

"No, never. These gentlemen want to hear it." The Judge turned to hang up his hat and the Voorhees party made for the door. When he was ready to take his seat no one was present but Col. Wintersmith.

"Where are those gentlemen?" asked the Judge.

"They are gone, sir," said Colonel Dick. "They wanted to insult you by leaving. It is an outrage. I would seek satisfaction."

The Judge, being of a fiery nature, put on his overcoat and at once started in hot chase after the offenders. As soon as he got out of the door, Col. Wintersmith quietly locked it and wrote his letters.

MRS. LINCOLN'S JOKE.

A resident of Wheeling, W. Va., says: "Mrs. Lincoln had a very dear friend in Wheeling, Mrs. Richard J. Dodge, who was at one time a Miss Ridgiay, of Springfield, where she went to school with Mrs. Lincoln when they were both young girls. On the day following the rapid journey of the President-elect from Harrisburg to Washington, when his friends feared assassination, Mrs. Dodge received from Mrs. Lincoln a bouquet in a paper box, without any explanatory note or card accompanying it. We consulted over this present for some time, and finally wrote to Mrs. Lincoln for a solution. She wrote in answer that the bouquet signified the safe arrival of her husband, and meant 'Abe O. K.'"

THE COLTS.

(From the Rochester Democrat.)

Cadwell Colt, who started on the ocean race with the Dauntless, is the richest young man of his age in Connecticut, and, with one exception, in all New England. He is the son of Samuel Colt, who made $2,000,000 in the manufacture of arms. I well remember Sam Colt, as he was then commonly called, and who was at that time a struggling adventurer. He had invented a torpedo and blown up a small vessel off the battery, but it attracted but little attention. He also had the model of an improved pistol, but this was not considered of much value. There were at that time two young Colts in this city, and both were wild. In addition to Sam there was his brother John, who taught book-keeping. He had roved through the South, and then came to this city seeking his fortune; but, alas, he only found a prison and a gallows awaiting him. He was convicted of the murder of Samuel Adams, and the whole case was reproduced in the recent Unger trial. He only escaped the sentence of the law by committing suicide, and his body was carried to Hartford.

MR. ELWOOD MEETS MR. SLOSSON.

[Cleveland Leader.]

When he was in Chicago, Nicolini made a contract with George F. Slosson, by which the champion billiardist will go with him to Wales, and teach him the fascinating game. Mr. Slosson arrived from Chicago yesterday morning, and registered at the Stillman. While he and Nicolini were standing in the billiard parlor, John Elwood, a local expert in handling the cue, entered the room, and invited Nicolini to play a game.

"I do not care to play," was the reply, "but perhaps my friend will accommodate you."

Slosson readily consented, and they began to shove the balls over the cloth. Elwood was walking away with the innocent stranger, as he thought, and had nearly won the game, while Slosson had counted but a few points. It was Slosson's turn to shoot, and picking up his cue, the champion ran the game out. The defeated expert looked at Slosson a moment, dropped his cue, walked into the hotel office, and leaning over the counter, whispered to Manager Coleman, "Who the deuce is that fellow?" Mr. Coleman gave him the desired information, and he departed.

COL. FORNEY'S OWN MISTAKE.

Col. Forney, in a Press article, used the expression: "Strained at a gnat and swallowed a camel." The editorial came down: "Strained at a 'knot' and swalled a camel." The proof was corrected three times and returned with the object of the distinguished editor's wrath still straining at that irrepressible knot. Furious, the Colonel rushed to the composing-room, found the man who had set up his leader, and in pure vigorous Saxon informed the printer that as editor Col. Forney decided what words would be used on the editorial page. The printer listened patiently while the Colonel informed him that he had learned how to spell before he started the Philadelphia Press. With the explosion of some more vigor of the blankety-blank persuasion the editor turned to leave, when the printer quietly held up the original. The Colonel's gnat stood out boldly "knat," and the great writer, who had rushed in like a lion, left that smiling composing-room like a lamb.

The River of Rest.

A beautiful stream is the River of Rest;
The still, wide waters sweep clear and cold,
A tall mast crosses a star in the west,
A white sail gleams in the west world's gold;
It leans to the shore of the River of Rest,
The lily-lined shore of the River of Rest.

The boatman rises, he reaches a hand,
He knows you well, he will steer you true,
And far, so far from all ills upon land,
From hates, from fates that pursue and pursue;
Far over the lily-lined River of Rest—
Dear mystical, magical River of Rest.

A storied, sweet stream is this River of Rest;
The souls of all time keep its ultimate shore;
And journey you east, or journey you west,
Unwilling, or willing, sure-footed or sore,
You surely will come to this River of Rest—
This beautiful, beautiful River of Rest.

—Joaquin Miller in the Century.

Where the Other One Was.

[Omaha World.]

Child at Washington: "Who are all those men lounging around outside the Capitol?"

Parent: "They are United States Senators, my child."

"Are there any more Senators besides them."

"Only one."

"Where is he,"

"He is inside, making a speech."

Cleveland as a Gardener.

[Atlanta Bureau.]

When Grover Cleveland so far forgets or ignores himself as to gush politically, patriotic or personal sentiment, he generally contrives to gush disgustingly. And his sentimental letter regretting his inability to witness the unveiling of the equestrian statue of the rebel Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, at New Orleans the other day, is a supreme example of the President's irrepressible proclivity in that direction.
